30,000 French Troops Occupy 12 Struck Mines

PARIS (AP)—Some 30,000 French troops, backed by armored cars and heavy machine-guns, seized at least 12 strike-bound mines in northern France today.

Pickets meekly surrendered the pits to the government forces, many of them Moroccan infantry.

No violence was reported as the coal strike entered its fourth week. There also was calm in central and southern coal fields.

Interior Minister Jules Moch announced police and troops had occupied about half the key northern minefields.

15 IN CUSTODY

He said that, within seven hours after beginning their drive, the police took over some 280 square miles and made about 15 arrests. The areas occupied lie between the Belgian border and the Douai-Lille Road, Moch said, and include the whole Valenciennes group of mines and part of the Douai group.

"We do not come to fight against the strike," Moch said in a radio speech. "We come to prevent the destruction of hundreds of billions of Francs of national wealth, endangered by the criminal decision to abandon safety machinery."

GRAB LOSS

The Communist-called strike has already cost the country the loss of 3,000,000 tons of coal.

Limited sympathy strikes have been ordered by the Communist-led Confederation Generale du Travail. In St. Etienne there was a 24-hour general walk-out ordered for the funeral of a miner killed Friday when police occupied the Camber-Mine.

In the Zube Department of Northeastern France, 20,000 striking textile and metal workers went back on the job this morning after non-Communist unions had signed an agreement for a 10 per cent pay boost.

3 Die, 19 Survive Crash Of U.S. Air Force Cargo Plane

CHANUTE AIR BASE, Ill. (AP)—Three men were killed Sunday night in a crash here of a C-47 United States Air Force plane carrying 22 persons.

Nineteen injured, taken to the base hospital, "probably owe their lives to the fact that the plane first hit two empty barracks," Brig. Gen. F. R. Upthegrove, commanding general, said.

The twin-engine cargo plane, approaching the base in a heavy ground fog, chopped a corner off one barracks and then plowed through a second barracks before smashing to the ground.

"Those old barracks certainly were worth their price," the general said.

He believed the wooden two-story structures cushioned the crash, saving the 19 passengers in the cargo plane's fuselage. Those killed, he said, were the pilot, co-pilot and crew chief, all in the plane's crumpled cockpit.

New Process May Be Biggest Step In Steel

MONTREAL (CP)—A new process for making steel, disclosed Saturday night by Premier Duplessis, will "revolutionize the industry" if it can be made to work on a large scale, a government official said here today.

The process, which is said to turn out a batch of steel from iron ore in a half hour, was disclosed by the premier in an address at Irberville Saturday night after he had watched the pilot steel-making plant at St. Johns, Que.

The government official, who would not allow himself to be quoted, said the details of the process were secret but the refining of the ore was done by electricity.

Normally, the steel-making process, from the time the ore is put in the blast furnace until it is poured from open hearth furnaces takes more than 24 hours. Great quantities of coke and limestone are needed in the present processes.

"If this really is the thing," the government official said, "it will be the most revolutionary event in the history of the steel industry."

"However, it has yet to be tested on the big plant scale."

The official said the inventor's name could not be disclosed.

Good News If Proved By Tests

NEW YORK (CP)—T. W. Lippert, chief editor of the Magazine Iron Age, said today the report from Montreal of a new steel-making process "good news, if it is true."

"It sounds like a direct reduction blast furnace such as they use in Sweden," said Lippert when asked to comment on the process. "If they can convert ore into steel in half an hour, I'd like to know more about it."

"It can be done, but half an hour is an awfully short time."

Predict 60-Mile-An-Hour Gales Over Victoria Area By Midnight

Gale force winds are sweeping down from the Gulf of Alaska today towards the B.C. coast and Victoria is expected to be hardest hit with gales of 60 miles an hour by midnight.

Gales of 45 miles an hour are predicted for other coastal areas.

The gale will be the second to lash the coast in 48 hours.

During the week-end, high winds struck the coast, sending ships to cover and resulting in the sinking of a packer, loss of a timber scow and the blowing adrift of four others.

Two frigates, slated for scrapping, were blown adrift in Esquimalt Harbor Sunday morning by a southwest wind of 50 miles an hour, but were returned to their moorings the same evening suffering only minor damage.

At Steveston, the 68-foot packer, Pine Leaf, owned by Anglo-British Canning Co., was reported sunk at the Phoenix cannery docks. The boat was unmanned and is now in eight feet of water.

Back here in Victoria, B.C. Electric officials state that only minor damage to wires was caused when tree branches were torn loose by the wind and fell across the wires.

Telephone lines came through the gale intact except for the toll line to Sooke, which was out for a brief period, a B.C. Telephone official stated.

Today's gale warning predicted that winds over the Victoria area would increase from 40 miles an hour this afternoon to 60 at midnight, decreasing to 30 by Tuesday morning.

Record Presidential Vote Expected In U.S. Nov. 2

WASHINGTON (CP)—The best available estimate from each of the 48 states places the total vote for President in the Nov. 2 United States election at 51,035,256.

This is 1,214,944 more than the record vote of 49,820,312 in 1940 when the late President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie were the principal candidates. It is 3,009,572 above that of 48,025,684 in 1944 when Roosevelt won handily from Thomas E. Dewey, this year again Republican candidate.

The 1948 estimate is the result of an Associated Press tabulation of forecasts obtained from state election officials and others.

The 51,035,236 total vote estimate is less than some other forecasts. The United States Census Bureau says there are 95,000,000 men and women of voting age. Many of course, will be ineligible for various reasons and others will stay at home on election day.

Storm Kills Eight

BOSTON (AP)—A north-easter lashed the New England coast today with at least eight deaths blamed on the storm—all highway accidents. Power lines and trees were felled as a strong wind swept in from the sea. The wind reached a force of 78 miles an hour.

Two By-elections Being Polled Today In Sask., Ontario

OTTAWA (CP)—This politically-conscious capital awaited with keen interest today the outcome of two federal by-elections being decided in Ontario and Saskatchewan.

The contests are in Algoma East, in northern Ontario, and Rosthern, in central Saskatchewan. In both constituencies, the polls were open from 8 a.m. local time, with voting continuing till 6 p.m.

In Algoma East, External Affairs Minister Pearson is seeking a seat in the Commons. He is opposed by John Fitzgerald of Blind River, Ont., Social Credit candidate, and Lorne Callahan of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., C.C.F.

In Rosthern, the contest is between W. A. Boucher of Hoey, Sask. Liberal; P. G. Makaroff of Saskatoon, C.C.F., and George W. Bellhartz of Rosthern, Social Credit.

The Progressive Conservative Party did not nominate candidates for the by-elections.

Argentina Reports Revolt In Paraguay

BUENOS AIRES (Reuter)—A military revolt has broken out at Asuncion, capital of Paraguay, reports received here today from the Argentine-Paraguay frontier indicate.

The political situation in Paraguay has been obscure since a five-month civil war ended there 15 months ago.

Last August Natalicio Gonzalez assumed the Presidency, following elections in which he was the sole candidate.

His predecessor, Higinio Morinigo, had previously fled to Argentina.

Writer For Reuters Jailed In Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—A People's Court of Justice today sentenced Aurel Varannal, Budapest correspondent for Reuters's news agency, to eight months in prison.

The court convicted him on charges that he sent "repeatedly and deliberately" messages which jeopardized Hungary's international reputation and incited against the democratic order of his country.

Varannal, who claimed he had filed only objective news reports, appealed to Hungary's high court.

Important Gains Expected From Premier's Talks

LONDON (CP)—A brief speech from the Throne, read to Parliament today, said "great good" must come from the recently concluded conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers.

Only about 55 members of the 640-member House of Commons attended the special half-hour session to prorogue Parliament. Speaker Clifton Brown of the Commons read the Throne speech. In the House of Lords the speech was read by Viscount Jowitt.

Tomorrow the King will drive in state to Westminster to open the new session. He will read the Speech from the Throne outlining the Labor government's policy for the coming year.

The speech used the term Commonwealth, rather than British Commonwealth. In this respect it followed the precedent set in the communique summing up the work of the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference which ended last week.

AFRICAN QUESTIONS

Referring to the African conference which was attended by representatives of all British territories in Africa, the speech said:

"Representatives of my peoples in Africa have conferred in London with my ministers. Their meetings will, I am confident, promote closer understanding, co-operative endeavor and mutual benefit."

PARIS (CP)—Russia vetoed tonight the small-power proposal for a compromise ending the Berlin deadlock.

The vote, in the United Nations' Security Council, was nine in favor and two against.

Russia and the Ukraine voted against. The Soviet dissent constituted a veto, Juan A. Bramuglia, acting council President, ruled, and the resolution was rejected.

Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky had told the council he was prepared to veto the small-power compromise if it came to a vote.

With both arms flailing the air, Vishinsky denounced the resolution aimed at settling the crisis arising from the Soviet blockade of Berlin. He said it was unfair to Russia.

Vishinsky said the Berlin question should never have been brought before the Security Council in the first place.

Approved By Western Powers

The six-power resolution called for immediate lifting of the blockade, adoption of the Soviet mark as the sole currency for Berlin by Nov. 20 and meetings of the Big Four council of foreign ministers by Nov. 30 to discuss the whole problem of Germany.

British, French and U.S. delegates all informed the council, before Vishinsky spoke, that they would accept the resolution.

The six powers—Canada, China, Argentina, Syria, Belgium and Colombia—stepped into the dispute in an effort to mediate it, soon after Britain, the United States and France had filed the

Tanker Stands By U.S. Landing Craft

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A tanker arrived early today alongside a distressed United States navy landing craft which planes and ships had hunted in vain for nearly 18 hours off the Virginia Capes.

The tanker Junius Smith radioed Atlantic fleet headquarters it had found the 380-ton vessel 120 miles east-southeast of Cape Henry and would stand by until a destroyer arrived.

The landing craft is carrying "between 30 and 40" naval reservists on a training cruise from Miami, Fla., to Boston, headquarters said.

Leave headquarters said the vessel "is in no danger." It was reported taking water in the engine room through a leak around the steering post, but pumps were keeping up with the flow.

Pearson Plans Soon To Fly To Paris

OTTAWA (CP)—External affairs Minister Pearson is expected to fly to Paris towards the end of this week, presumably to attend the United Nations meetings.

There were reports today he would leave Ottawa Friday.

Mr. Pearson was in the Ontario constituency of Algoma East for today's federal by-election, in which he sought a seat in the Commons.

Tenders will close Nov. 3, a week from Wednesday, after which the council will decide on a price and ask the ratepayers to authorize the borrowing of the amount of money required.

It is hoped that the borrowing by-law can be put to a vote before the December municipal elections although many civic officials do not believe it can be prepared in time.

Aldermen are anxious to see tenders on the job and compare them with the estimate of J. W. Oosterink, city building inspector and supervisor of arena construction since the start of the year, who said he believes over $130,000 is needed.

Seized Telephone Wire And Leapt From Window

By Oksana S. Kasenkina
(Edited by ISAAC DON LEVINE and Copyright, 1948, by King Features Syndicate Inc.)

THE FIVE DAYS and nights of my confinement to the third floor of the Soviet consulate became a mounting nightmare for me. I had no rest. Presumably I was free to move about. In reality I found myself under domestic detention.

"Why do you keep me here? Why are you making a nervous wreck out of me?" I would keep asking either Lomakin or Chernykh. "With all that noise outside and all those curiosity-seekers, why don't you let me go to Glen Cove?"

I hoped that there, at the Long Island estate which was being used as a rest-home for Soviet officials, I would find it possible to escape to freedom. But these plans of mine fell on deaf ears. "Skoro poyedem—we'll be leaving soon," Lomakin would answer, indicating that he, too, expected to journey back to Russia.

One day Lomakin reported to me that Countess Tostoy had declared to the press that I had a sister in England and that my husband had been purged. He feigned surprise at these facts which I had confided to Miss Tolstoy, and queried me about it in a significant tone.

Plans To Escape

THERE WAS no longer any doubt in my mind as to what fate had in store for me upon my return to Russia. The deadline for my appearance in court had passed and those surrounding me now felt that I would not be surrendered to the American authorities for questioning.

I began to figure out possible ways and means of escaping. I feared among the onlookers in the street there might be Soviet agents planted by the consulate to see if I were communicating by signals with confederates outside.

I virtually stopped taking food, which worried the consul greatly. He would ask me if there were any appetizing items they could buy for me. I kept insisting that I wanted a change of quarters. I put on a pair of slacks and a jacket, and tried to relax. But I could find no peace.

To keep me entertained, the consular women finally installed a little radio in my room. I could hardly understand what the news broadcasts were reporting about my case, but now and then I caught my name and those of the consuls, and realized what a sensation the affairs had become.

Transferred To Basement

I ASKED to be transferred downstairs. To show me that there was no other room available in the building I was taken down to the basement which was used as a storeroom. After this I preferred to return to the third floor. I had noticed that there was a grilled iron door leading from the basement passageway into the courtyard.

"You can see that we have no space," Lomakin assured me, "but you can come downstairs any time you want to. You are free to go about as you please." The implication was that my stay in the consulate was all for my protection.

The afternoon of Thursday, August 12, I decided to put Lomakin's words to the test and make an attempt to get out. I dressed for the street, put on my gloves, and boldly walked downstairs, making for the front door. Suddenly I was surrounded by a band of men. There must have been 20 of them and they seemed to have sprung out from every corner.

"Where are you going?"

"You mustn't leave."

"Don't you see what's going on in the street?"

"Go back to your room!"

Lomakin himself appeared. "Podnimyets!—Up you go!" he snarled, repeating the order.

I Spot An Open Window

I WAS HUSTLED up the stairs. Two of the consular females were immediately assigned to me. One of them was Petrova, the other was my former landlady, Zoya Porojniakova, who had her little girl Olechka with her.

"Why did you do this?" they asked. "Do you think that you're under arrest?" Zoya remarked with a sly smile.

"Why?" I cried, breaking into sobs. "They don't let me go out. I'm stifling here without air. I'm no longer my own self, and can't sit still or rest."

I sat there smoking furiously. "What shall I do now?" I kept saying to myself. "I must do something. I must do something."

The little girl began to cry too. To quiet her I went across the hallway, to Lomakin's alcove to get a soft drink out of the refrigerator for the child. The door from the alcove to Lomakin's living room was ajar. I noticed that the window in the back was open.

I poured out the drink for the little girl and took it to her. Her mother and Petrova were in my room. They were trying to soothe the tot with the cold beverage.

I made a dash for Lomakin's room, closing the door behind me. I climbed up to the window sill, saw a wire attached to the outside wall of the house, and looked down as I shivered with a chill of terror. I crossed myself, seized the wire, and leaped.

Hurt But Still Alive

IN AN INSTANT I was lying down in the courtyard in a heap. And I was alive! I had not lost consciousness. As it appeared later, I had burned the two fingers which gripped the wire as I slid a short distance down before I pulled it off the building. It was a telephone wire and fell all about me.

As I was groaning and calling for help, there were outcries and sounds of alarm in the air above me. There were people fumbling at the iron door leading from the consulate building into the courtyard. As I only learned subsequently, the door had been locked long ago and the Soviet officials could not locate the key for several minutes.

The American police officers, having climbed over a fence separating the consulate grounds from the adjoining building, were at my side.

"American hospital," I murmured my wishes to them as I lost consciousness. (Tomorrow — Mrs. Kasenkina concludes her story.)

Hunter Shot By Son Suffers Compound Fracture Of Arm

The 30-30 bullet which pierced the body of James Goudie, 65, Grant Road, Sooke, Saturday morning, on a Sooke hunting trip, caused a compound fracture of the upper left arm bone, it was reported today by the physician attending him at Jubilee Hospital. "It is an expensive injury, but not a fatal one," the doctor said.

The first bullet to hit him only caused minor abrasions to the right cheek.

Provincial police quoted Mr. Goudie as saying his 17-year-old son, Donald, fired the shots which wounded him. He thought his son had mistaken him for a deer.

The shooting took place in the Demanuel Creek area, behind the property owned by Scotty Knowles. After being hit, Mr. Goudie made his way to Knowles' place, was taken to Dr. Dorothy Thompson at Sooke for first-aid and brought to town in the west coast ambulance.

Case is being investigated by Constable Alan Quinn of the Sooke detachment of the B.C. Police.

Steamship Offices Closed By Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Closing of two Pacific coast steamship offices was reported as a result of the maritime strike, now in its 53rd day. The strike has tied up 67 ships here and 150 elsewhere along the west coast.

The Alaska Transportation Company said in a statement it had no future plans. The Shepard line's local business will be turned over to an agent, its district manager said.

Plan Invitations To Seven Powers; Others May Join

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Invitations to portentous conference to draft a military alliance between North America and western Europe probably will go out soon after next week's United States presidential election.

Countries expected to take part in the initial phases are the United States, Canada and Europe's western union powers—Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Several other countries in the non-Communist line-up—namely Italy, Iceland, Norway and Denmark—may join in the talks at some point.

The proposed North Atlantic alliance has been sketched out in rough outline in the Washington talks. It would commit the United States to military involvement in the affairs of Europe more deeply than it ever before has been pledged in peacetime—although not more deeply than it actually is involved now with occupation armies stationed in Germany and Austria.

The treaty is expected to embrace two major provisions dealing with the problem of aggression—by which the western governments mean an attack by Russia.

The first is that an attack upon one country should be considered an attack upon all. The second is that each government—in accord with its own constitutional processes—should decide the appropriate action to take.

That would not automatically commit the United States to go to war if France, for example, were attacked. But it would pledge the United States government to consider the attack in the same light as though the United States had been attacked.

Final decision in such a case would rest with the United States Congress, since no treaty can take away the exclusive constitutional authority of Congress to declare war.

Both President Truman and Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican Presidential nominee, have declared themselves in favor of greater European unity and closer ties between the United States and Europe.

West Europe Ministers Meet

PARIS (AP)—The Foreign Ministers of the Five-Power Western European Union met today, with a possible military alliance with Canada and the United States reported foremost on their agenda.

Authoritative British and U.S. sources said linking of the Brussels Union with the North Atlantic pact will be the central theme of the sessions which began this morning.

Informed British sources said Sunday night Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain will give his conditional endorsement to a French-Belgian proposal for a Western European Parliament.

The Parliament, to be chosen from among the deputies of the five national legislatures, would have consultative authority.

Bevin's support for a Western European Parliament is expected to be conditional on a greater amount of co-ordination by the various governments to give the parliament a more solid foundation.

When the project of an eventual international parliament was broached by the French last summer, Bevin avoided any commitments, pleading he had to consult with the Commonwealth countries. French circles said the Commonwealth Dominions had given the scheme their blessing at the recent London meeting.

The Foreign Ministers also will take up a report from their defence ministers who last month agreed to weld their military high commands into an integrated general staff under Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

The military co-ordination also includes standardization of arms, training, procurement and operations. From the European viewpoint, military unification will serve as the basis for asking the United States to supply arms.

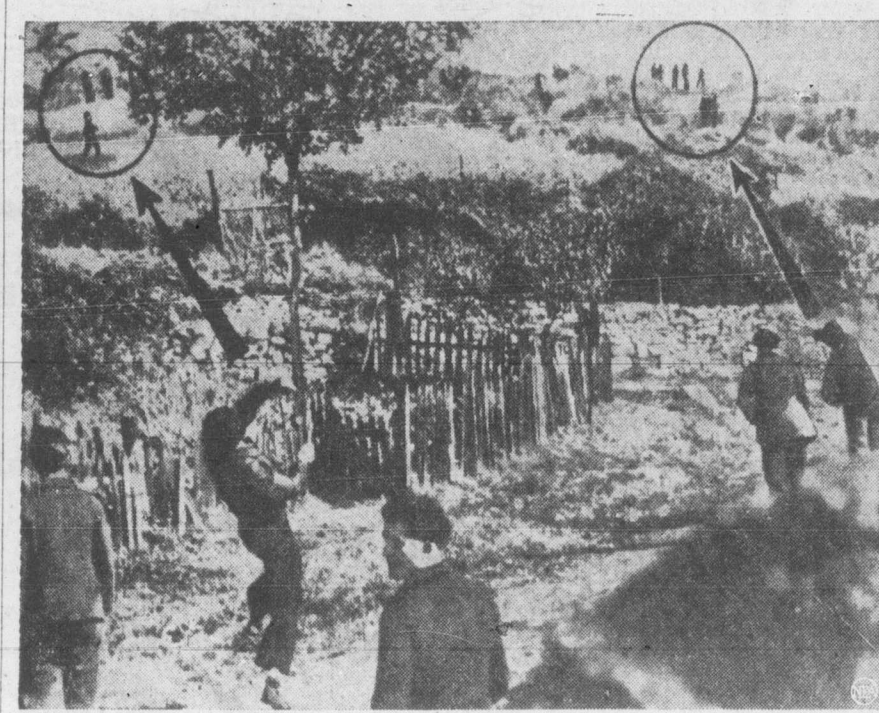

During the meetings the Foreign Ministers will review the reports of their finance ministers on steps taken to promote trade and an easier flow of currency among the member states.

Efforts to co-ordinate their respective national health programs and other social benefits also will be studied.

Gets $9.91 Salvage

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—William Forsythe has received a cheque for $9.91, his share in salvage money from a torpedoed oil tanker he helped keep from foundering 600 miles off the coast of Newfoundland. Forsythe was serving as a navy signalman on the corvette Mayflower in March 1942, when he took part in the rescue of the Imperial Transport.

Policy On Israel Issue In Presidential Campaign

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States Presidential campaign hits its stretch drive today with President Truman and his Republican opposition accusing each other of playing politics with Palestine.

Shortly before he set out for Chicago and the first of a final series of big city speeches, Truman Sunday night declared his support of the original United Nations plan to partition the Holy Land, subject only to changes approved by the new Jewish State of Israel.

In a statement which White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said had been "cleared with the State Department," the President also asserted he had ordered swift study of Israel's application for a United States loan.

Truman, Democratic candidate for re-election in the Nov. 2 election, said he had been forced to "reiterate my own position" because Governor Thomas E. Dewey has "seen fit" to speak out on the subject last week.

Dewey, the Republican presidential nominee who also will take to the road tonight for his campaign wind-up, offered no immediate rejoinder.

But campaign manager Herbert Brownell, Jr., said Dewey simply had complied with a request that he restate his support of the Republican platform plank in favor of partition.

Winnipeg Judge Suggests Minister Of Child Welfare

WINNIPEG (CP)—Increase in juvenile delinquency has prompted a Winnipeg judge to suggest an Ottawa-directed youth program as a corrective measure.

Judge Emerson F. Heaney of Winnipeg's juvenile and family court says he would like to see such a program directed by a federal minister or deputy minister.

"They have all sorts of ministers—ministers for fishing and forestry. Is a fish more important than the welfare of a boy? It is a tree more important than a girl?" A federal minister, by planning five, 10 or 15 years ahead, could give leadership to the entire problem of youth, he said.

Judge Heaney and social workers are concerned about the upsurge of juvenile delinquency in Greater Winnipeg. Postwar crime among Winnipeg's youth has developed from petty thievery and wilful damage to capital offences such as rape and murder.

Hear Appeal Of Hunter Found Guilty Of Assault

The case of George Farmer, 2651 Anson Place, convicted of assaulting William Taylor, Telegraph Road, and occasioning him actual bodily harm, opened before the Appeal Court today.

Farmer was sentenced to six months imprisonment by Magistrate H. C. Hall for assaulting Taylor. The accused was out pheasant hunting on the early morning of Oct. 16 when the assault took place. The victim suffered from a badly gashed lower lip.

Joseph McKenna, counsel for the accused, said the magistrate had imposed a sentence too severe on Farmer.

Mr. McKenna expressed the opinion that the magistrate was influenced by the way the prosecutor conducted the case against the accused.

Mr. McKenna said he did not bring in any character witnesses at the trial because he did not expect the magistrate to be so severe on Farmer.

He told the court that the prisoner was prepared to pay both the doctor's and dentist bills of the victim. Farmer was prepared, he also said, to pay $500 in general damages.

Mr. McKenna submitted affidavits signed by 15 prominent citizens with regard to the prisoner's character. Some of these affidavits were signed by Rev. J. H. McAllister, minister of Gorge Presbyterian Church; John William Atkinson, painter; Brooke Stephenson, real estate agent; Archie McKinnon, physical director Y.M.C.A.; A. W. Sheret, merchant, and others.

Counsel asked the court for a suspended sentence in view of the prisoner's good character. As an alternative, he said, the court could impose a fine and sentence the accused to the time he has already spent in jail.

Judgment was reserved by the court.

McLellan Seeks Extension Of Term As Police Chief

Mayor Percy George, chairman of the Victoria Board of Police Commissioners, today received a letter from Chief of Police John A. McLellan asking the commission for an extension of his term in office beyond his retirement age.

The matter will be considered by the November meeting of the commission. The City Council will have final say in the matter.

"I am now able to carry on my office of Chief Constable after a long and painful illness caused by the fireladder accident of which you are fully aware," the chief's letter reads.

"I feel I am justified in asking you to extend my term of office beyond the due date of my retirement, for a period equitable under the circumstances," the letter concluded.

Chief McLellan suffered injuries when the ladder from which a fireman plunged to his death early last December struck him while he was passing near it in the Public Market square behind the headquarters firehall.

Chief McLellan was hospitalized for many months and only recently was able to return to his duties.

Nothing has been heard at the police commission meeting during the last few months about selection of a successor to Chief McLellan and also about the new appointment of a full-time deputy chief.

Chief of detectives, Inspector Harry Mercer and Insp. Blackstock are the two who have been mentioned most prominently for these two positions.

Security Council To Hear Egypt's Case Against Jews

PARIS (CP)—The Security Council has been ordered to meet tomorrow to hear Egypt's complaint that Israel broke the United Nations' cease-fire in the Negev desert.

U.N. truce observers reported Saturday that Israeli forces were still attacking a day after the Security Council truce deadline in the Negev.

Heavy fighting also is reported in northern Palestine. U.N. observers said the Jews bombed and shelled Lebanese towns.

A spokesman said neither side gained substantially. Israeli forces counter-attacked after claiming the Arabs had broken the truce by attacking. The Jews claimed they took two heights and drove Arab fighters across the Lebanese border.

The U.N. spokesman said "Jewish planes bombed Blida, Meiss Ej Jebel and Houle, inside Lebanon." He said the Jews also shelled some points in Lebanon.

TODAY'S CONTESTS

IN EACH FEDERAL BY-ELECTION being held today the Liberal nominee is battling against a C.C.F.-er and a Social Creditor. The constituencies at stake are those of Rosthern, Sask., and Algoma East, Ont. The prairie riding became vacant when Mr. Walter Tucker resigned his seat in the House of Commons to lead the provincial Liberal Party at the general election last June. Mr. Thomas Farquhar, now Senator, relinquished the Ontario seat to accommodate Hon. L. B. Pearson, who became Secretary of State for External Affairs early last month. While the National Progressive Conservative Party was naturally not especially interested in waging what would have been merely a vote-splitting exercise in Rosthern, the decision not to oppose Mr. Pearson was a happy gesture, as the new minister's record is that of an expert in international diplomacy to whom members of all parties have paid warm tribute.

Since it was established under the Re-distribution Act of 1933 the Rosthern constituency has been solidly Liberal. In 1935, 1940, and again in 1945 Mr. Tucker's majority has ranged from 5,661 to 2,220 in a four-cornered contest at the last federal general election. On this basis, therefore, it should be reasonable to suppose there will be no change in representation when all the votes are tabulated this evening. It is interesting to note, incidentally, how the voters of this Saskatchewan riding changed their minds between the provincial general election in 1944 and the contest of last June 7 as related to the number of ballots cast for the second and third candidates. In the former, for example, the C.C.F. nominee ran second with 1,541 votes, and the Progressive Conservative third with 473. In the recent contest, on the other hand, with no Conservative running, the Social Credit candidate polled 1736, the C.C.F.-er trailing in third place with 959.

Just as Rosthern is traditionally Liberal in the federal and provincial sense, so is Algoma East, which a supporter of Mr.
Mackenzie King has represented since 1926
—with the exception of the period of 1930-1935. At the general election three years ago, Mr. Farquhar enjoyed a margin over his Progressive Conservative opponent—in a three-cornered fight—of 1,245. In view of all the circumstances, therefore, it would seem that Mr. Pearson has an excellent chance of finishing at the top of the poll.
The important post to which he has been called is one for which he is admirably equipped. Much awaits his attention. The greater the majority rolled up for him today the more satisfied he will be in his own mind that he did the right thing in allowing himself to be translated from the civil service to ministerial status.

NEXT, PLEASE!

NEW BARBERSHOP PRICES SCHEDuled for Nov. 1—75 cents for a haircut and 50 cents for a shave—are likely to result in a much more "artistic" look around the streets, as the hairline creeps below the collar and lengthy forelocks grace the brow.
The increase in the cost of shaves is not likely to be so noticeable, since the vast majority of men do not patronize the public shops for removal of the beard.

But the haircut, that periodically so-necessary service, is a different matter. The man who, on hearing of the increase from 50 cents to 65 cents some time ago, declared his intention of meeting the situation by increasing the length of time between croppings from 50 days to 65, will now be hard pressed.
However shaggy 50 or 65 days' abstention from the scissors may have left him, 75 days' growth will put him definitely in the hermit class. It is likely that, as in most things, men will balk at first and complain bitterly about the new price—then submit meekly to being clipped.

INDIA'S NEXT MOVE

NOW THAT THE MEETING OF THE Prime Ministers of the British Commonwealth has concluded in London, students of Empire affairs and the peoples of many foreign countries will be speculating on what the Dominion of India will do about its imperial relationship when the Indian Constituent Assembly meets next month.
Reports from London during the last few days have indicated that Mr. Nehru, the head of the government at New Delhi, found a good deal with which to agree as he followed the conclusions of Premiers of other British states. Nor was this attitude of mind surprising.

Few in the great subcontinent understand or appreciate better than Mr. Nehru the British system of government, its evolutionary processes during the last three or four decades, or what the logical development of that system has meant in the shape of human betterment for millions of people scattered around the globe. On the other hand, however, as the political guide, philosopher, and friend of nearly 300,000,000 people of his own faith, it may be anticipated that the Prime Minister of the Dominion of India, in the event of his advocacy of retention of the loose Empire tie, will be confronted with a good deal of opposition. By the reverse token, moreover, similar objections might be raised were he

to recommend that India "cut the painter."
But this must remain in the realm of conjecture for the time being.

Reaction in New Delhi to the apparently pleasant and profitable meeting of the Commonwealth Prime Ministers now seems to lie in an attempt to assess the comparative merits of retaining membership in the British Commonwealth of Nations or of India going her own way as a completely independent state in every sense of the term. This may turn out to be an extremely difficult political question to deal with. But upon the new Dominion has devolved the responsibility for discovering the answer.

India's close relationship with Great Britain in the economic sense, her dependence upon British assistance if she were to be attacked from without, and those other imponderables remaining in the mosaic of history will have no influence on the present or any successive British government. The independence which India has demanded through the years is now a fait accompli.
Whether this former "Jewel of Empire" will remain a house divided against itself, or whether Hindu and Moslem eventually will pool their political faiths and their territorial possessions, only time and circumstance will determine.

PRESERVING THAT SMILE

ONE OF THE MOST ANNOYING AND expensive health problems of modern mankind arises from tooth decay. From the time in his first few months when newly-arriving teeth may upset the even tenor of his days, until later life when he may have to cope with the disadvantages of artificial dentures, the average person has trouble with teeth. They must be repaired, straightened, extracted, replaced and otherwise tended, with pain the ever-present threat—a deteriorating asset that sometimes seems not worth the effort of preservation. True, there are many fortunate people who experience little difficulty throughout their years. But there are others who view their uppers and lowers as parts of a cross they must bear through life. The relief, therefore, with which the public would greet a remedy for such ills could hardly be exaggerated.

It now appears that there exist strong hopes that a cure may be found. Following the discovery that children in areas of the United States in which the chemical fluorine was found in the drinking water experienced as much as 60 per cent less dental decay than those in other districts, American experts began a series of long-term experiments to place the finding on a scientific basis. Results in cities with fluorine are being checked against extensive observations in communities without that element in the water. In addition, experiments are being conducted in the application of fluorine solutions directly to the teeth of children. It appears that the action of the chemical is to combine with the tooth enamel, forming a much stronger and caries-resistant material. A comparatively large amount of fluorine in the water tends to discolor the teeth, but a balance is being sought to provide the maximum of protection with the minimum of discoloration.

A recent address by federal Health Minister Paul Martin disclosed that Canada, too, is carrying out experiments along the same lines. Dental health among 1,800 school children of Brantford, Ont., is being observed over a period of years while fluorine is being added to the city's water supply.
Similar records are being kept in Sarnia, Ont., without benefit of the chemical. A third experiment is being conducted in another Ontario city where fluorine is found naturally in the water. The tests will take several years. Mr. Martin reports that "the officers of my dental division tell me that while there are high hopes for this measure, in the light of present evidence there is not yet sufficient proof of its usefulness to suggest a widespread application of water-fluorination." Such proof must entail considerable waiting, but the hope is there. To quote the Health Minister again: "It is amazing to think that one part per million of sodium fluoride added to the community's drinking water might lead to such a startling reduction as from 40 to 60 per cent in dental caries." It may be that drinking several glasses of water daily will prove efficacious in keeping not only the doctor but the dentist away.

FOR MEN ONLY

THERE WILL BE CONSIDERABLE male sympathy with the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartette Singing in America, known more familiarly by its members as the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., which now faces court action by a lady who was excluded from joining. The Society holds that harmonizing of the four-part barber shop variety is exclusively a man's pastime, as inevitably masculine as the tonsorial emporiums, with their rows of initiated shaving mugs, where this art had its origin. In the words of an official of the organization, "We can't have any Jenny Lind soprano spoil the chords of harmonious efforts."

The news item describes the would-be lady member as a "Chicago charm school operator," and suggests that the case may be taken to the Supreme Court by the gentlemen vocalists in their efforts to hold the male ranks unbroken. To us at this distance it would appear that the lady has failed already. If the weapons provided by her charm school have not been effective in gaining her entree, legal action is unlikely to be more successful. Far from trying to join a quartette, perhaps she should be concentrating on becoming half of a duet, where her voting power would at least have an even chance.

Man may pray for what is best. The trouble is, he wants to be the one to decide what is best.

To Heal France

By LORD VANSITTART
in The Sunday Pictorial (London)

FOR FIFTY YEARS I have been one of France's best friends.
Throughout my life I have loyally defended Anglo-French relations and the cause of France when it coincided with our own, as it has so often done. My firmest political principle has been that near neighbors must be close friends; and that principle has been amply confirmed by the aggressive Germany with which we have had to deal throughout the century.

Now the need is no less, for we have to deal instead with an aggressive Russia, which has simply taken over German foreign policy.

THERE IS HOWEVER, much more than political expediency in my appreciation of France. All good Europeans are deeply indebted to France for her immense contributions to European culture.

The French know well my sentiments toward them. For this, I think, they did me the great honor of electing me to succeed the late President Roosevelt in their world-famous Institut. It is therefore as a friend that they will expect me to speak plainly of their present chaos.

France, you are putting your best and truest friends in grievous difficulties. You are making it hard to defend your reputation and your future.

YOU HAVE FORMED and overthrown a dozen impotent governments since the Liberation. You have done so because your politicians cannot pull together for your salvation, and so they are pushing your long-suffering people into an abyss which every day draws nearer.

They have done this because they have been thinking of themselves and their parties, whereas all this while they should have been thinking of you, and you only.

Democracy is so infinitely the best and gentlest of all forms of government that it is surely worth the effort of saving.

The Sunday Pictorial has asked me eight questions about you, France, and I will answer concisely.

WHY DO French governments fail so often?

The reasons are multiple, but the main one has always been that there are too many Parties. They throw their weight about, causing perpetual instability by entering into sudden camps.

Moreover the falls of French governments do not entail general elections.
Would a general election now give France a stable government?

There would probably be sharp disturbances before and during the elections, but they would at least give to France a far better chance of stability.

"The present Assembly is not representative of the French people, who are mainly tired of its acrobatics. For example, to take the three main parties, there would probably be a decline in the representation of the Communists, who actually want France to continue in chaos; the declining French Socialist Party would certainly lose still more seats, and so very probably would M.R.P."

IS THE ONLY choice between the Communists and de Gaulle?

The present failure of French democracy is rapidly reducing the choice, though in principle there should be no such need. If the choice is forced on France, three out of four Frenchmen will choose de Gaulle, because he is not tainted with Communist brutality, and because he has a fine war record, whereas the Communists were beneath contempt for the first two years.

Moreover Communism, like Nazism, always means dictatorship of the most ruthless kind. There is no reason to assume that de Gaulle would be a dictator—certainly not one of this abominable brand.

Is it not ridiculous to include France in the Big Four?

No, it is both right and wise to include France in the Big Four, if she will pull her weight together. It would be fatal to count
"bigness" only by numbers; that would result in a Big Two only, the United States and Russia. Napoleon I bled France white for man-power, but she was recovering when the Germans thrice bled her again. It is from that ordeal that she has not recovered.
We really must not forget her huge sacrifices for liberty.

CAN FRANCE claim to give any leadership in Europe at all?

Yes, France is an indispensable part of Western Unity. That is why her friends here so greatly regret, and dread, her present plight. It will be tragic if her politicians wreck this great project.

Is France finished even as a moderately strong power?

No, if she will face her problem with unity and courage, and cure her own political disease. She cannot regain her former primacy, but a useful future is still open to her in Western Europe, though her chances are waning with every day of her present confusion.

IS WESTERN UNION really workable
without a strong France?

Only in a defective form. Yet, even if France were to drop out, we must still go on with our only prospect of salvation. We did not abandon the war because France was defeated.

If it is in our interests to preserve France
as a power, what can we do about it?

It is certainly in our interests to preserve France as a power, but we can do little beyond appealing to her best interests and to her common sense.

If a man gets a duodenal ulcer, no doctor or friend can help him unless the victim agrees to diminish the strain imposed upon his body. So it is with the body politic.

RARE BOOKS

I have had it in mind for some time to write you for the purpose of presenting a plea that anybody possessing a rare book should present it to a public library. If not, such a book is likely to be mislaid or come into the hands of a person to whom it is of no use.

A rare book should be placed where the most use can be made of it, in a public library. May I add that I have practised as I preach, having given several rare and valuable books to the Provincial Library.

Still Looking For Atlantis

THE STORY of the lost continent of Atlantis is one that has cropped up in myths and legends since Plato's time, although definite proof of its existence is still lacking. Now Egerton Sykes is off on an expedition to find it. In an interview in BBC's
"In Town Tonight" program he said, "Plato first brought to the attention of the world the story that 9,000 years before his time there had been a thriving civilization in what is now the Atlantic Ocean. He got his facts from the grandson of Solon, and was sufficiently interested to journey all the way from Greece to Egypt to check up on it."

SUPPORTING EVIDENCE

Mr. Sykes is the founder of the Atlantis Research Institute, which aims to collect all available information on the subject and establish geographical and historical facts about the continent and its inhabitants. There is a great deal of evidence to support his views, for of the 400 foot legends belonging to different races, all centre round the Atlantic basin.

LAND BRIDGE

"In many parts of the world," he said, "there is evidence that what are now mountains were once under salt water. In South America there are buildings dating from thousands of years before Columbus, which show proof of Egyptian and other Middle Eastern influence. I'm sure that there was once a land bridge between Europe and America over which prehistoric man traveled to the New World
—and that bridge was the continent of Atlantis."

Mr. Sykes hopes to prove his case by scientific expeditions "to South or Central America and the West Indies, to Persia, to the Riff Valley in South Africa, or to the Azores. "If I can raise sufficient money we shall go to the Azores and search, either with radar or underwater television, for traces of buildings on the steep slopes of the mountains under the sea."

SUBMERGED BUILDINGS

"During the war, an American airman reported that half way between Dakar, in West Africa, and Natal in Brazil he saw what seemed to be buildings beneath the surface of the Atlantic. And in the last 30 years a number of airmen flying over North Persia have reported seeing, encased in a glacier about 70 miles southeast of Mount Ararat, the clearly distinguishable remains of a ship.
Unless there was a terrific flood,
how would a ship be so far above see level? Our theory is that it may even be the actual Biblical Ark."

More Than Rhetoric Needed

By JAMES THRASHER from New York

BELGIUM'S Premier Spaak thinks there is too much
"open diplomacy" in the United Nations. We don't know that we agree with Mr. Spaak's choice of phrase. But we do agree with his complaint that the United Nations is being used too much as a sounding board for propaganda.

WORTHY GOAL

There is nothing wrong with open diplomacy as such. The Wilsonian ideal of "open covenants openly arrived at," though never fully realized, is still a worthy goal.

What Mr. Spaak obviously objects to are the uses to which open diplomacy is being put. He says that debate in the U.N. does not have the healthy spontaneity it had three years ago. Instead, the delegates have become conscious of the world coverage of their remarks that will reach millions of readers. This offers a terrible temptation to indulge in propaganda, the premier points out.

Slim Voting

Montreal Gazette

The careless indifference with which the average Canadian exercises his right to vote, is a constant and painful reminder that our democratic system falls short of perfection. That the same lethargy constitutes a problem in all other democratic states, does not make the disability less serious.

He was referring, of course, to the speeches in which representatives of Russian-bloc countries and the western democracies have charged each others' governments with desiring and preparing for war. These charges have been made in blunt, intemperate words and, in the case of Russia, with that disregard for truth that is the trade mark of propaganda.

There is no denying that a threat to the peace exists. But a succession of angry speeches will do nothing to remove it. On the contrary, such speeches can only fill the minds of millions all over the world with dread and resignation.

HELP BREED WAR

Very often it is not the fire itself, but the cry of "Fire!" that starts a fatal panic. Very often it is not an organic ailment but apprehension that reveals itself in the symptoms of a serious disease. Panic and apprehension, we believe, can also help breed war.

Mr. Spaak offers no remedy for this situation in the U.N. He says only that some "more moderate system" must be developed to replace the abuses of open diplomacy without resorting to secret diplomacy.

Perhaps there is no set of rules that can change the present situation. But this much is clear.
The people of the world do not want war. They are not planning war. They may approve or disapprove their governments' policies, but they have no eager desire to kill one another to prove a point.

The threat of war, the prevention of war and the fate of the world rest not with the world's people, but with the delegates in Paris and their superiors at home. The source of the trouble is Russia's aggressive ambitions. But the solution is in the hands of many.

NOT APPEASEMENT

The solution does not mean appeasement of Russia by the West. Yet it does not mean that the West must fan the flame higher by matching Russia's anger and stubbornness and nationalistic pride. It means compromise, even if the democracies have to make the first move—with a preliminary understanding that compromise is not to be interpreted as surrender.

Enough angry words have been spoken and recorded and read. The need now is for wisdom and realism. And the time is growing short.

No Wonder

Calgary Herald

The latest statistics from Washington show that food is 118 per cent higher than the pre-war average; clothing, 99 per cent; furniture, 96 per cent; and the general cost of living 75 per cent. Rents are only up 18 per cent. And then Americans wonder why it's so difficult to rent a house or apartment, and why landlords are so hard to get along with.

By SIGRID ARNE
A.P. News Analyst
For DeWitt MacKenzie

BEFORE the current United Nations' session ends in Paris
there is an outside chance that the back door will be pushed open for Spain.

Three times since mid-1945 the Franco government has been declared unacceptable as a U.N. member. Then, to back the allied world's disapproval, the United States government got out a pamphlet in March, 1946, publishing part of Franco's wartime correspondence with Hitler and Mussolini.

It included several expressions of Franco's willingness to join the Axis providing he got the guns and grain.

Within the last few weeks,
however, a number of prominent Americans have come away from visits to Madrid with kind words for Franco.

What has started the trend to forgive and forget?

A United States State Department official says "times have changed." He acknowledges that Spain now is eyed from the military standpoint. He says military men must think of Spain in the allied camp should the Russian-western cold war change to a hot one.

LED BY LATIN AMERICANS

The current move in Paris is led by Latin Americans, with Argentina as the prime mover.
They would like to see Spain admitted at least to the U.N. sidelines to such affiliated agencies as the International Telecommunications Union and the Civil Aviation organization. And they would like to see U.N. member countries put top-ranking diplomats back into Madrid.

When the Allies met in 1945 in San Francisco to set up the United Nations they voted a special resolution on Spain. It said membership "cannot apply to states whose regimes have been installed with the help of armed forces of countries which have fought against the United Nations, so long as these regimes are in power."

MORE SPECIFIC

About the same time, at Potsdam, the Big Three—Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union—were more specific. They said they would not favor U.N.
membership for the Franco government, "which, having been founded with the support of the Axis powers, does not... possess the qualifications necessary to justify such membership."

Since then the Russians and their satellite states have taken the lead in the United Nations in anti-Franco moves.

There is no talk, however, of granting Spain a full U.N. membership. That would have to go through the Security Council, where Russia has a veto. And the Russians have supported more bitter anti-Spanish moves than any other country.

5,042,000 At Work In Canada, Highest Total In History

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian employment has hit another new peak.

In its 12th quarterly survey of the country's labor force, the Bureau of Statistics estimated that 5,042,000 persons were working in the first week of September.

That's the biggest number ever to hold jobs in Canada. It was a boost of 34,000 from a year previously.

The bureau estimated the number of unemployed had dropped to 67,000, representing decreases from last year and the year before.

Of those employed, the bureau calculated 3,932,000 were men and 1,100,000 were women.

FEWER ON FARMS

The estimated indicated farm employment had dropped off slightly during the year. It was 1,247,000 in early September, 50,000 down from mid-August of 1947 and 70,000 below the figure for the same time in 1946.

Employment in industries outside agriculture stood at 3,795,000, a gain from the total of 3,709,000 a year before.

By regions, Quebec showed the greatest gain during the year. The total of employment on the prairies fell off by 10,000.

Quebec employment jumped from 1,343,000 to 1,384,000. In the prairie provinces, there was a drop from 1,022,000 to 1,012,000.

For the other areas, these increases were shown:

Maritimes, 430,000 to 434,000; Ontario, 1,769,000 to 1,772,000; British Columbia, 439,000 to 440,000.

On the unemployment side, those unable to get jobs totaled 1.3 per cent of the labor force. Of the 67,000 unemployed, 14,000 were women.

Despite the fact that the number of their job-holders fell off, the prairies had the lowest percentage of unemployment—0.3 per cent. The Maritimes had the highest with 2.5.

Quebec's percentage was 1.4; Ontario's, 1.1, and British Columbia's an even 2 per cent.

Head Of West Europe's Land Forces French Soldier Of Long Experience

LONDON (Reuter)—A 60-year-old stern disciplinarian who carries scars of 10 battle wounds, is the newly-appointed head of western Europe's land forces.

Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny is the land chief under plan to prevent the complete occupation of France.

Betrayed, he was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment in 1943. The same year he escaped by sawing the bars of his cell, cutting out a wooden window-frame and evading the 50 policemen picked to guard him.

He scaled the prison walls with a rope and made for London, where he joined Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Today he is known to Frenchmen as the man who invaded the south of France in 1944 and became supreme commander of the post-liberation French army.

GEN. DE TASSIGNY

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, who heads the defence forces of the five-country Western Union.

De Tassigny loves order and believes in many of the "old school" methods for turning out the perfectly-disciplined soldier.

A member of the general's staff described him as "a very great leader of enormous strength and endurance, who often works an 18-hour day."

De Tassigny was born in the little village of Mouilleron-en-Paretz, in the Vendee, western France, and his 89-year-old father still is mayor of the community.

His birthplace gives a clue to his character, for the Vendee was the home of many royalist movements through the 19th century and is still the most traditionalist region of France.

Trained at the St. Cyr Military Academy, De Tassigny went on from there to the cavalry and entered the First World War with a sword as his weapon.

Later he transferred to the infantry. In March, 1930, aged 50, he became the youngest brigadier-general in the French army.

After the fall of France, he served in unoccupied territory and in Tunisia, and headed a

Two Candidates In Manitoba By-election

MINNEDOSA, Man. (CP)—Two candidates, a coalition and a C.C.F. nominee, will contest the Nov. 2 provincial by-election in this constituency. Nominations closed Saturday with no last-minute entries.

Harry S. Rungay, a Liberal of Newdale, will be the coalition standard bearer. Ralph Frith, Omack merchant, is the C.C.F. candidate.

Nomination of a Liberal to contest the by-election for coalition forces gave rise early in September to suggestions that the informal agreement in effect since 1940 between Liberals and Progressive Conservatives to maintain the status quo among members of the legislature had been violated.

Dr. E. J. Rutledge, a Progressive Conservative, had represented Minnedosa riding for 20 years until his recent resignation. Speculation on a coalition split was ended when the Conservatives threw their weight behind the Liberal nominee.

Composer Of 'Merry Widow'
Franz Lehar Dies At 78

VIENNA (AP)—Franz Lehar, composer of "The Merry Widow" and one of the last links with the light-hearted music of Vienna's past, died Sunday in Bad Ischl, Austria. He was 78.

The man whose operettas were known and sung throughout the world had been ill for two years. His other hits included "Springtime," "Gypsy Love," "The Count of Luxembourg," "The Land of Smiles," "The Man With Three Wives" and "The World Is Beautiful." Although his fame came primarily from his light music, he also had composed several sonatas, symphonic poems, marches and dances.

At Lehar's bedside were his brother, Baron Anton von Lehar, and his sister, Emma Marie Paphazy, widow of a Hungarian count.

For nearly six weeks the composer had been on the critical list, and last Friday his physician, Dr. Franz Wurnik, said: "The end is near."

COMPLICATIONS DEVELOPED
Wurnik said death was due to cancer, but Lehar also had had gastric ulcers, double pneumonia and heart ailment.

The funeral will be held next Saturday. The body will be buried beside the remains of his mother and his wife.

During the earlier days of his illness Lehar asked that his death announcement read: "When I wrote music which captured the public I still had another purpose in my mind than to offer just mere amusement. I wanted to capture the hearts of mankind and enter into souls. The hundreds of letters I received from all (over) the world testified I was successful in doing so and that my life's labors had not been wasted."

Lehar was born in Komorn, Hungary, April 4, 1870. He lived in Vienna for 37 years prior to the Second World War, leaving that city in 1939 for Bad Ischl. His wife, Sophie, was a Jewess, but was not molested during the Nazi regime because of her husband's world-wide fame. Lehar had refused to take any part whatever in the Nazi movement.

WENT TO ZURICH

When Vienna fell to the Russians in May, 1945, Lehar and his wife, at that time seriously ill, fled to Zurich. His wife died there in 1947, and Lehar returned to Bad Ischl.

Lehar's love for music was inherited from his father, a military bandmaster. He studied at the Prague Conservatory and began his career as a conductor of military bands in 1894-96. On the advice of the great Czech composer, Anton Dvorak, he later devoted himself to composition.

RESERVE WELCOMES VISITORS—"Open house" at the naval division, H.M.C.S. Malahat, Saturday afternoon was a family affair with hundreds of visitors entering H.M.C. Dockyard to see the R.C.N.(R.) display. Here Sgt. and Mrs. J. E. Wright and their son, John, listen as P.O. W. J. Renewed Prayers For Peace Mark Opening Of U.N. Week

United Nations Week began throughout the world Sunday with churches, including those in Victoria, observing the event with renewed prayers for peace.

Support of the United Nations, described as the most powerful organization standing for peace and good will in the world today, was sought by Mayor Percy E. George in a radio address Sunday evening.

Under the auspices of the Victoria branch of the United Nations Society, programs designed to familiarize the public with current events in the U.N. have been arranged.

The group has arranged for speakers at a number of meetings in the city. School teachers have been requested to emphasize the United Nations in classes during the week and speakers will address students in high schools and some elementary schools.

At the Gyro Club luncheon at the Empress Hotel today, L. W. Makovski, a member of the Victoria branch of the United Nations Society, was the guest speaker. He spoke on "The European Scene," tying in present conditions in Europe with the work of the U.N.

"World Order or World Chaos" will be the subject of an address by Dr. J. M. Ewing, principal of Victoria College, at a public meeting at Prince Robert House at 8 this evening.

Although unable to be here during United Nations Week, A. N. Morse, national executive secretary of the society, will visit the city Nov. 4. He will address a meeting at Prince Robert House on "Is Co-operation Possible between the U.S. and Russia?" The talk will be followed by a general discussion.

Attempts are being made to have Mr. Morse address an assembly of city high school students.

Party Stunt Sends Susan Fletcher To Hollywood

TORONTO (CP)—Use of a Yorkshire accent as party stunt has helped Susan Fletcher of Vancouver and Toronto obtain a Hollywood contract.

She has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the role of a Yorkshire scullery maid in a proposed technicolor production, "The Secret Garden."

Miss Fletcher went to Vancouver from Toronto two years ago. For the last year she has been doing CBC commentaries on Hollywood news.

At a social gathering in Vancouver, she acted out two stories with a Yorkshire dialect. She was the life of the party—and in that party was Fred Wilcox, an M-G-M director.

On his return to Hollywood, Wilcox went through the script of "The Secret Garden" and came upon a part calling for a Yorkshire scullery maid. He remembered the girl at the Vancouver party who did the Yorkshire dialect stories.

Miss Fletcher is a cousin of Raymond Massey, prominent in the theatre and motion pictures, and of the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Chancellor of the University of Toronto.

A baby clinic will be held in the Colwood Hall on Tuesday with Nurse E. Urvald in charge.

Motor Trip South Follows Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Stewart.—(Photo by Paul Joncas)

Motoring down the coast to California on their wedding trip are Angus Stewart and his bride, Beatrice Elaine Shea, who exchanged nuptial vows before Rev. W. R. Ashford at Centennial United Church Saturday evening.

Tall standards of white spray mums formed the setting for the 8 o'clock service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Shea, 1109 Catherine Street, and the groom, a member of the city police force, and well known in sport circles, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart, 1423 Fernwood Road.

Garnet Shea gave his sister in marriage in the absence of their father.

The bride's gown of lustrous white satin was fashioned on classic lines, the gathered skirt completed in a full train, and the net yoke enriched with seed pearls.

Seed pearls were repeated in the tiers which held her fingertip veil of French illusion net, and she wore her groom's gift, a pearl and rhinestone necklace. Her crescent bouquet was composed of Ophelia roses and white carnations.

Sisters of the groom and bride, Mrs. Clem Aitken, honor matron, and Miss Pearl Shea, senior bridesmaid, wore full-skirted gowns of petal pink and of Nile green taffeta respectively. Miss Fern Shea, niece of the bride, wore a similar gown in golden maize. All wore lace mitts and lace-trimmed poke bonnets to match their gowns, and carried bouquets of chrysanthemums.

Robin Stewart served his brother as best man. Brothers of the bride and groom, Erwin Shea and John Stewart, with Clem Aitken and John Woodford, were ushers. Miss Mary Cowley sang "The Wedding Prayer" while the register was being signed.

At a reception, held at 1012 Douglas Street, toast was proposed by T. Crawford. A miniature bride and groom topped the three-tier wedding cake. White candles in silver holders and vases of flowers decorated the bride's table.

Following their honeymoon trip, for which the bride wore a green gabardine suit, with matching accessories, brown squirrel coat, and orchid corsage bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will make their home at 3184 Quadra Street.

Vera Wood Bride Of Vancouver Man In Candlelight Ceremony

Heather sent from Scotland marked guest pews at St. Mary's Church for the candlelight wedding Saturday evening when Miss Vera Watt Wood became the bride of John Kennedy "Ken" McShane. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns officiated.

The couple will live in Vancouver, the home city of the groom and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McShane.

As the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Wood, 1230 Monterey Avenue, entered the church with her father, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" was sung by the choir.

Her gown of blush pink velvet, made with peplum and bustle-back, formed a graceful train.

The same exquisite shade was repeated in her full-length veil, held by a coronet of heliolum Limerick lace, and in her crescent bouquet of Ophelia roses, gardenias and stephanotis.

Queen's blue crepe fashioned gowns similar to the bride's model, worn by attendants, Miss Margaret Wood, her sister's honor maid, Miss Muriel Rollo of Vancouver, bridesmaid, and Miss Joan Barber, flower girl. Cerise ostrich plumes formed head-dresses for senior attendants, and they carried arm bouquets of matching chrysanthemums.

A heart-shaped bonnet was worn by Miss Barber, and she carried a basket of pastel baby chrysanthemums.

Len Robinson of Vancouver stood with the groom as best man. Also from the mainland city were Jack Roocroft, and Doug Cryderman, who acted as ushers.

Friends offered congratulations to the newlyweds at a reception at Uplands Golf Club. Mrs. Wood and Mrs. McShane assisted in receiving guests. Toast was posed by a close family friend, S. Mitchell.

The bride carried a fur coat to complete her traveling costume, a grey gabardine suit, matching model hat, accessories in cranberry hues and corsage bouquet of gardenias.

Pas-a-Pas—Regular meeting of the Pas-a-Pas group, First United Church, was held at the home of Mrs. S. Neville, St. Andrew Street. Mrs. K. Mills presided and Mrs. R. Crawford reported a sum of $66 realized from a rummage sale. Plans were made for a tea to be held jointly with the welfare group of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, at the Victoria Nursing Home, Gorge Road, on Nov. 3, commencing at 2.30 when work completed with proceeds from the garden party will be inspected.

Versatile Scribe Is Cousin Peggy

HALIFAX (CP)—Scientific scepticism of dual personalities is taking a beating.

A greying Halifax woman, dealer in murders and bedtime time stories, is providing the beating, for, she says, "there are two of me."

The woman, friend of children who love the way she talks of squirrels and wild flowers as "Cousin Peggy" in the Halifax Star, has covered 33 murder stories.

This unconventional newspaper woman, May O'Regan, focused the eyes of the nation on a snug settlement in Lunenburg County in the early '30s. Assigned to cover a "routine" murder in the woods near the sleepy village of Nineveh, she uncovered and wrote the "facts" surrounding the death of one Lem Smith, farmer, who proclaimed before his death that someone "put a witch on me."

He was certainly the victim of a very straight shot between the eyes when they found him a few days later. His nephew, Naaman, later convicted of the crime, bought a "spell"—an antidote—against the "witch" some unknown person had placed on him. May convinced the issuing "witch-doctor" that she too needed a "spell," and bought one—for $10.

FORMED SUNSHINE CLUB
That was only one of the 33 times May O'Regan ventured into cases of murder and violent death.

Her Sunshine Club, an offshoot of the column, holds regular contests among its members—youngsters who write to "Cousin Peggy" of their joys and sorrows.

Once she rode the city's main street on the back of a circus elephant. She wanted to write about a circus from a different angle. That was only two hours after finishing one of her columns. In fact, she set another first at that time also—one of the few collisions between a pachyderm and an automobile on Halifax streets.

May once dressed up fit to kill and paraded a darkened street in an effort to lure a man who had attacked three women in as many nights. All alone, save for a plainclothes man a few blocks behind, she was nevertheless unsuccessful.

"I guess I failed to get my man," she said.

Playpark Dance—To the gay tunes of Bowe's Orchestra, young and old alike danced at the C.C.F. Hall Friday evening when members of Q'Appelle Street playpark committee entertained. Councillor Rudd and Councillor Passmore attended, the former drawing the lucky ticket for the hand-tooled leather purse, made by Mr. Beddington, newly-elected president. The prize was presented to H. Bullock, 203 Esquimalt Road. Winner of the door prize was Mr. Dvsart. Refreshments were served.

The best ironing board cover is made of firmly woven, lint-free cotton, often in twill weave. The cover should fit smoothly over the pad, and should be washed frequently, using a commercial chlorine bleach to remove scorch stains.

To make toasted bread crumbs, trim the crusts from slices of stale bread, and dry the slices in a slow oven until they are thoroughly crisped but not browned. Crush fine with rolling pin or put through the food chopper, and sift before using, if desired.

"Don't let us be tight-fisted; else, when the showers of blessings come, our hands will be so stiff we won't be able to open them to receive them."

(EXTRACT FROM FOLLOWING LETTER SENT TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES)

In an editorial last week, re the Community Chest, you asked "Are Victorians Shirkers?" I'm quite certain they are not, when I recall their generous response to other appeals. Many don't realize all the great work the Community Chest is doing. The canvassers do, all honor to them and may God bless them! They give of themselves, their strength and energy. The newspapers have faithfully told, over and over again, of the good work of the Community Chest. Of course, some people just read the sports news, others the comics or just the first page. It must be the case. How otherwise could they resist the forthright statement of the great necessity for funds for this work! The children should be told of the need. Here's a great chance for self denial and character forming—it's everyone's job. Let us do without some indulgence or pleasure. DON'T LET US BE TIGHT-FISTED; ELSE, WHEN THE SHOWERS OF BLESSING COME, OUR HANDS WILL BE SO STIFF WE WON'T BE ABLE TO OPEN THEM TO RECEIVE THEM. Here, in our beautiful city, blest with prosperity, and our lovely island, where we experience no disasters of Nature such as have happened elsewhere, we could at least give a thankoffering for our many blessings. It gives me much pleasure to send another small offering for "The Chest," one dollar for each of the C.C.'s good works. It makes me so glad and happy to deny myself something I had planned to have, that it's almost a self-indulgence. IF WE SHARE WITH OTHERS, WE ARE SURE OF A BLESSING. TRY IT, DEAR PEOPLE, AND YOU WILL BE SURPRISED AND DELIGHTED.

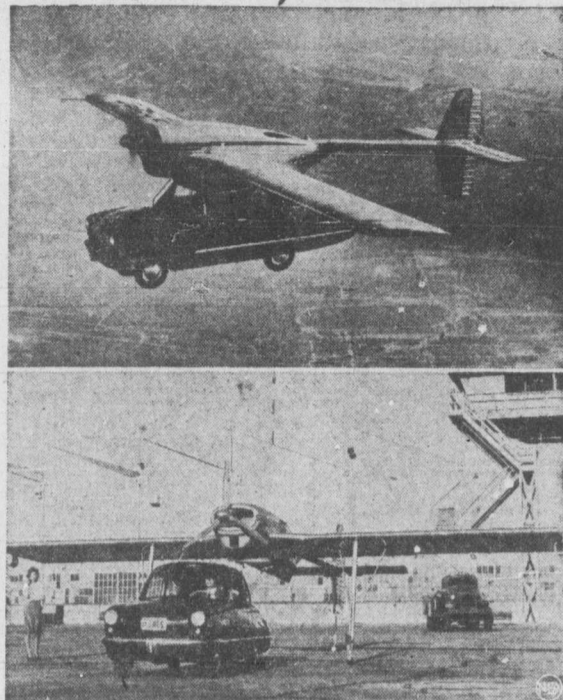

I plead with the wealthy of our city to give now with their love, instead of in their will. They won't be here to see results of what they leave behind, but by giving to the sorrowful and afflicted here and now, they will have joy and satisfaction and will find Treasure in Heaven—and may hope to hear the "Well done . . . inasmuch as ye did it unto the least . . . ye did it unto Me." Not only the rich are responsible but we, the people, are our brothers' keepers. It can't be possible that Victoria will be so careless and unmindful of responsibility as to fail the noble, generous-hearted members of the Community Chest, who work so faithfully for those who need their help. We must not fall short of the objective this time. We must prove that we are not shirkers.

Signed:

Canadian Buses Sold To South Africa Had Powder In Oil Systems

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Forty luxury buses purchased in Canada by the South African Railways have been taken out of service here because of grinding powder found in their oil-feeder lines.

The origin of the grinding powder is unknown, but it has been established that it was introduced before the buses arrived in Africa.

Of 100 buses ordered from Canada by the South African Company for delivery this year, 5 have been found to have the defect. Forty of them already were on the road and had to be removed because their bearings ran hot or became scorched. Examination by engineers showed the trouble was caused by grinding powder in the oil system.

tions. It was then decided to order the additional 100 buses.

The buses were intended for use on certain existing routes and also for long-distance luxury tours.

FROM MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP)—Victor M. Drury, president of Canadian Car and Foundry Company Ltd., said Friday night his company had sold motor buses to South Africa, but he didn't know if the Canadian-built buses mentioned in a Johannesburg dispatch as having been tampered with before delivery were the same ones.

Okanagan Firebug Blamed For 6 Fires

KELOWNA (CP)—Six fires in a three-hour period early Sunday in the business area of this Okanagan Valley centre have been attributed by Fire Marshal Fred Gore to a fast-working firebug.

Razed in a spectacular blaze was a planing mill. Loss was negligible, however, as the building was being demolished.

The other fires—which began in garbage pails at a jewelry store, taxi office, packing house and the Kelowna Club and in the cab of a parked truck—were extinguished before much damage could be caused.

Last week two other fires and the destruction of nearby Mission Creek School were blamed on an arsonist.

Ex-Servicemen's Organizations In New Zealand At Loggerheads

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Rivalry between two ex-servicemen's organizations in New Zealand has reached a head over their attitude to men returning from occupation duty abroad.

The larger body is excluding men whose overseas service has all been postwar, but is offering them every assistance in forming their own association, while the smaller body is welcoming occupation troops as full members on the same basis as men who saw active service during the war.

CONSTANT EFFORTS

Since the First World War the New Zealand Returned Services Association has been a powerful organization in New Zealand. Its constant fight for veterans' rights and its long experience in dealing with pensions and other matters have caused it to be closely consulted by the government on ex-servicemen's affairs.

Fear that it might continue to be administered by veterans of the First World War led to some prejudice against it when men began returning from the Second World War, but that fear has not been borne out by experience. In any case many new veterans were glad to avail themselves of the association's help based on years of dealing with similar cases. Today the danger is if anything reversed, as more than half the association's 121,000 members are men from the Second World War.

DIVIDED ON CONSCRIPTION

However, a rival body formed entirely of men from the Second World War was formed under the title 2 N.Z.E.F. Association (2nd New Zealand Expeditionary Force). It has pursued a vigorous and highly vocal policy, strongly criticizing the older body and its leaders on many matters. One fundamental difference is that while the Returned Services Association urges the introduction of postwar conscription for military service, the 2 N.Z.E.F. Association opposes compulsory military training.

The 2 N.Z.E.F. Association has a membership of only about 12,000, however, and its numbers would be considerably swelled by the accession of several thousand men now returning with the withdrawal of New Zealand's occupation force from Japan, few of whom saw active service during the war. It has termed the exclusion of these men by the older body "a studied slight directed at men who, through no fault of their own, were too young to serve in combat."

READY TO PAY

The Returned Services Association has excluded them under its constitution, which provides for membership only of men and women who were on active service overseas during hostilities. As a countermove it has offered to pay the entire cost of the first annual convention if the occupation troops form their own organization.

Pritchett Elected President Of 'Rebel' Log Workers' Union

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harold Pritchett of Vancouver was elected by acclamation Sunday as president of the Woodworkers' Industrial Union of Canada at the closing session of the two-day constituent convention.

Pritchett, who had been acting vice-president since the break-away from the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.), succeeds Ernie Dalskog, who was elected vice-president. Dalskog declined nomination for president on the ground that the post should go to "a man with the highest standing in the Canadian labor movement."

Hjalmar Bergren was named second vice-president; Jack Higgins, third vice-president, and Jack Forbes, secretary-treasurer. Elected trustees were A. Ludbrook, Vancouver; Mark Kennedy, Cranbrook; and Mark Mosher, Port Alberni.

SAYS BOOST NOT GIVEN

Pritchett said that a number of woodworking companies had failed to implement wage increases recently recommended by a conciliation board.

In an officers' report presented to 200 delegates to the W.I.U. constituent convention, which ended Sunday, Pritchett also charged employers with attempting to provoke a strike during negotiations with the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.). He accused them of trying to "smash the organization" with the aid of I.W.A. international officers and their "self-named white bloc."

REPORTS AUDIT

Pritchett, who led the break from the international union, contended that a chartered audit of the B.C. district books, for 1946-47 had proved as "entirely false" charges by James A. Fadlin, I.W.A. international president.

Fadlin had charged that district officers had failed to account for a large sum of money spent by them.

Ernie Dalskog, president of the rebel union, said the convention was "the living proof that the W.I.U. is here to stay and is backed by a decisive majority of the loggers and millworkers."

The two-day convention approved the stand against the Marshall Plan adopted by the I.W.A. women's auxiliaries, which were suspended by the parent union last week at its international convention in Portland.

75 Per Cent More Power For Mainland Through New Plant

By STAFF REPORTER

SOUTH SHALALTH, Bridge River, B.C.—Start of the first unit Saturday of the B.C. Electric Railway Company's hydro-electric power plant here increased power available to Vancouver and the lower mainland by 75 per cent.

The first generator of 10 planned by the company is capable of developing 62,000 horsepower.

Two more to be installed and put to work within a year will boost the output to 186,000 horsepower. Seven more to be added in the more distant future will bring the production up to the phenomenal figure of 620,000 horsepower.

Date for completion of the entire 10-unit project is not known.

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

It has taken nearly three years of seemingly impossible toil to bring the initial unit into production. At that it was completed nearly nine months ahead of schedule.

Here is a thumbnail sketch of the project as it stands today: About 5,000,000,000 gallons of water are backed up in an artificial lake behind Mission Mountain, about 130 miles north of Vancouver.

At the base of the 4,000-foot mountain on the shore of Seton Lake stands a five-story power plant which stretches a distance equivalent to a city block. The building is unfinished.

The lake behind the mountain covers about 1,000 acres and is 25 to 30 feet deep. It is held by a 1,000-foot long diversion dam across the Bridge River.

A two-and-one-half-mile tunnel 14 feet deep, lined with steel and concrete, leads from the lake through solid rock of the mountain to the side overlooking the power plant.

2,400-FOOT PIPELINE

Connected with the tunnel is a penstock, or large pipeline, 2,400 feet in length, running at a 41-degree angle down the mountain side.

The penstock runs under the powerhouse, carrying the water which drives the rotor of the generator, spurting through six great nozzles of a turbine to turn the mechanism.

The generator creates 13,800 volts of electricity which is stepped up to 230,000 volts by an immense transformer.

Leading from the transformer is the transmission line, strung on 704 steel towers and stretching 130 miles through wild, virgin land to Burnaby Municipality of Greater Vancouver.

CHINESE SAY EARLY KING WAS 'BLESSING LIKE SUNSHINE'

China has a written history which goes back at least 4,000 years. The ancestors of the Chinese are believed to have lived in central Asia, and records left by them have been found. Some scholars believe that those records date back longer than the Great Pyramid of Gizeh.

One of China's great rivers is the Yellow river. The valley of this river is covered with a certain kind of wind-blown dust. The dust must have been carried to that area by winds which blew during a period of thousands of years. It appears that most of the dust came from central Asia.

Bit by bit, the dust built up layers of soil, and the soil now forms the famous "loess" of China. In some places it is from 100 to 200 feet deep, and it is excellent for the growing crops. The color of the soil is yellow-brown. Some of it has been carried to the Yellow Sea by the Yellow River.

It seems likely that the very ancient Chinese moved out of central Asia and settled where the dust settled! This movement of people probably went on for many centuries.

There is reason to believe that the first civilized people in China lived in the valley of the Hwang Ho, or Yellow River.

The Chinese speak about hero kings who ruled the region around that river. One of these was named Yao, and if we can believe what was said about him he was one of the noblest men in history.

"People looked to Yao as they did to the sun," we are told. "They loved him as well as they loved their own parents. His kindness was a blessing like the sunshine, or like the rain which falls on the dry soil."

"One day Yao spoke, these words: 'When any person in my kingdom is hungry, I am hungry, too. I suffer when any man, woman or child is treated cruelly.'"

Another figure in ancient China was Lao Tse. He started a religion which is now followed by millions of persons. We shall have more to say about him and

SAYS BRITAIN TIRED

Rt. Rev. J. W. C. Wand, Bishop of London, says Britain was in danger of losing its nerve as a result of tiredness after the war. The Church today, he avers, is dealing with agnostics of the second generation—young persons whose parents had no religion.

United Nations Still Chief Hope Of Man, Howe Declares

OTTAWA (CP)—Acting Prime Minister Howe says the United Nations still "remains the centre of man's hopes and efforts for peace and justice."

In a message issued Friday in connection with the observance of United Nations Day on Sunday, Mr. Howe said the United Nations offers opportunities of international co-operation for peace and welfare.

Celebration of United Nations Day had been arranged, he said, through the United Nations Association in Canada.

"In their efforts to bring the work of the United Nations and the principles of this international organization to the attention of the public of Canada, the association merits whole-hearted public support."

Collegians-Bays Tie In Rugged Rugby Tilt

Although they held an edge in the play, Victoria College Vikings had to be content with a split in points with J.B.A.A. in Saturday's first division rugby match. Teams wound up the tilt with five points each. Result throws the students into the driver's seat, however, a single point ahead of the second-place Canadian Scottish.

Collegians opened strong, hemming the James Bay squad in its own zone for a good portion of the first half, but the Bays' three line worked well to gain yardage and on numerous occasions, surged close to the line towards the latter stages of the half. Around the 30-minute mark, speedy Dick Chungranes narrowly missed a try when he gathered in Fredy Ranson's short kick and raced all the way to the Collegians five-yard line before yielding to his tacklers. A free kick awarded to the defenders served to ease the pressure a little, but Bays continued to press.

KICKS FAIL

A few minutes later, oarsmen were awarded a gift kick and fullback Tom McKeachie elected to try for the points from the 27-yard marker, but the angle was too great. Soon after, McKeachie attempted another kick from 45 yards out, but his effort fell short, and the first stanza went scoreless.

Vikings lost no time grabbing the lead after play resumed, and at the three-minute mark, Fred Choat polished off a nice running attack started off by Gerry Main and assisted by Roger Ross. George Dunlop drew a large hand from the crowd when he split the uprights with a perfect conversion, giving College a 5 to 0 edge.

At the other end, full-back Dave Bryn-Jones saved a sure try when he made a diving grab for the pigskin after Bays had booted the ball just in front of Collegians' line. At the 15-minute mark, however, Chungranes scored between the posts from about 13 yards out and McKeachie had no trouble converting to deadlock the score.

College held the majority of the play during the latter stages, and on one instance, were awarded a free kick from 50 yards out. Dunlop made a valiant attempt to give the students the margin of victory but the distance was too great.

Vancouver Edges Seattle To Tighten Coast Hockey Race

Seattle held onto its lead followed closely by the entire pack in the northern division of the Coast Hockey League today, while San Francisco maintained its comfortable perch atop the southern division.

Penalties helped to whittle Seattle's Ironmen down to the Vancouver Canucks' size Sunday night, and the Canadians won, 5 to 2.

Four of the Vancouver scores came while Seattle had men in the penalty box.

The Fresno Falcons won their second straight from San Diego 5 to 1 and the Portland Eagles chewed the visiting Los Angeles Monarchs 4 to 3.

San Diego's loss, its fourth in a row, dropped the Skyhawks into the southern division cellar. Nic Cioro cleaned up for Fresno, scoring a goal in the second and one in the third.

The Monarchs' loss at Portland was their third against two victories in their northern tour. Here, too, penalties cost the game, the Eagles scoring three goals while Los Angeles had men in the penalty box.

Pat Desbiens fired an overtime goal to give the Eagles the win.

Tips On Golf Rules

BY ROBERT FOULIS
DISQUALIFIED THROUGH THOUGHTLESS ACTION

In New Zealand a few years before the last war a player was disqualified in the open championship through thoughtlessness. He was the favorite to win this stroke competition and was doing well. On one of the greens he and his fellow competitor were away on in two, the latter being away. On reaching his ball, he heard the voice of a friend in the large crowd say, "Nice going, kid," or a similar N.Z. expression. He nodded and smiled. Close to his friend was a man lighting his pipe. The man threw the match on the green—of all places. Without thinking, the player took a ball from his pocket and put it over the match! He picked the ball up and put it in his pocket while his fellow-competitor was still lining up his putt. The crowd groaned when it was learned that the player would be disqualified.

Toronto Students Carry Off Goalpost

TORONTO (CP)—University of Toronto students marched triumphantly up Yonge Street early today with a goalpost seized from Montreal's Molson stadium after Toronto beat McGill 41 to 0 in football Saturday.

Police were called to the procession of returning students but said the parade was orderly—apart from one student who attempted to cut automobile bumpers with a wood saw.

Hibberson, Lea Hold Golf Buttons

Rallying after being three down at the ninth hole, Eric Hibberson and Ken Lea, Uplands, defeated Bill McCall and Vic Painter, Colwood, 1 up at the Uplands Golf Club Sunday, to retain the city golf buttons.

Winners had a best ball of 74 compared to their opponent's 75.

Juvenile Soccer

Scores in juvenile soccer matches over the week-end follow:

FIRST DIVISION
Heaneys 2, Esquimalt A.A. 0.
Jubilee Pharmacy 2, Esquimalt Meat Market 2.

SECOND DIVISION
Greneks 12, Sea Cadets 0.
Esquimalt A.A. held Heaneys scoreless in the first half, but the champions scored twice in the second frame through Robbins and Robb. Allan Earl played a splendid game in goal for Esquimalt.

In a hard, fast game, Esquimalt Meat Market played their second straight tie game, matching two goals with Jubilee Pharmacy. Dawe and Emery scored for Pharmacy and Coldwell and Adam for Meat Market.

Greneks overwhelmed the Sea Cadets in the second division. Hepburn 4, Barnes 3, Burley 2, Crisp, Hendry and Pollard were the goal scorers.

ITALIANS WIN
NEW YORK (AP)—The Belgian team of Louis J. Saen and Emile Beunneau won the six-day bike race Saturday night at Kingsbridge Armory in the Bronx before a crowd of 15,000.

The Belgians, making their United States debut, set the pace almost from the beginning of the race and relinquished it but once for a short time Friday.

Saskatoon Hilltops Junior Grid Champs

SASKATOON (CP)—Saskatoon Hilltops defended their Saskatchewan junior football title with a convincing 17 to 11 triumph over Regina Bombers at Griffiths Stadium Saturday. A terrific stretch drive did the trick.

Trailing 11 to 6 with eight minutes of play remaining, the defending champs put on a whirlwind display that sent 3,000 fans into a frenzy as they blasted Bombers wide open for two touchdowns and a win that sent them into the western Canada playoffs.

Star of the game was big hard-driving team captain Denny Prince, who was out on his feet after a spectacular one-man display. He scored all four touchdowns and was the driving force that kept Hilltops in the game. His running mate, Will Godfrey, with the game-winning convert, was another star.

STRANAHAN WINS

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., Sunday won the Mexican amateur golf championship, his third title of the year. He defeated Charles Kocsis of Detroit, Mich., 9 and 7.

The 25-year-old Stranahan previously won the British and Canadian amateur tournaments.

faloes defeating Lethbridge Native Sons 6 to 3 in a contest that saw 17 penalties handed out by officials.

The Bufts trailed 2 to 1 at the end of the first period but rammed home two goals in the middle session and outscored the home team 3 to 1 in the final 20 minutes, thus spoiling the home debut of last year's memorial Cup semi-finalists.

In the other scheduled Saturday night contest, Bellevue Lions made their home debut a winning one, registering a convincing 7 to 3 decision over Medicine Hat Tigers.

United Get Ready For Match With Leaders

Their game Saturday canceled when Vancouver City failed to put in an appearance, Victoria United soccer team will go into stiff training this week in preparation for an engagement here next week-end against North Shore, top dogs in the Coast League. Local fans and players were no little upset Saturday when the city club was grounded on the Vancouver airport, owing to fog, and the match had to be called off.

Meanwhile, on the mainland North Shore kept its unbeaten record intact by edging St. Andrew's 1 to 0. It gave the Shores a record of three wins and a like number of draws in six starts. They hold a four-point edge on second-place New Westminster.

AMBLER SCORES

The lone goal of the contest came at the 41-minute mark. Taking a pass from Bill Smith, Harvey sent a cross into the goalmouth where Ambler, though tagged by Nick Glover, managed to leap high in the air and head the ball home.

The clubs were hampered by a slippery pitch and greasy ball, but the Scots gave a fine passing exhibition. But, when it came to putting the ball into the net, the losers weren't in the game.

In the opening minutes of the first half, Ambler almost gave his club the lead when he got in the clear only to have Johnny Webber make a nice recovery and clear.

Down at the other end, Brian Philley, Gogle Stewart, Jimmy Grieg and Don Matheson all took swipes at a loose ball but failed to find the mark.

North Shore's Harvey and Dave Brown sent in a couple of hard drives, but Scots' netminder Bobby Newbould turned those shots aside.

"I'm zealously, fanatically in favor of the Democratic System"

Ben Hughes, Editor of the Courtenay-Comox Argus.

"I can say with certainty for the Courtenay-Comox Argus that now and during the past quarter of a century no government or any body or agency outside the business has dictated the policy of the paper, and I believe that is true of the great majority of Canadian newspapers," says Ben Hughes, Editor of the Courtenay-Comox Argus.

"The only people who can dictate to Canadian publishers are their subscribers and, without circulation you cannot get advertising. Therein lies the safeguard of a free press under the private enterprise system. A free press is your safeguard against inefficiency in high places everywhere; against anybody who'd impose on your rights."

"But nobody, and especially no government, likes to be criticized. And a Communist or state monopoly government could make it very tough for a newspaper which attacked it."

"How? Well, with the government controlling everything, they could soon put on the pressure through newspaper rationing, manpower direction, or straight control."

"That's why I'm against Communism or any state monopoly system. As we saw in Hitler-land of yesterday and Stalin-land of today, the first thing the Communists do is to get hold of the newspapers; either the editor follows the party line or he goes to the concentration camp. The greater concentration of power there is in the hands of the government, the greater danger there is to a free press."

"I'm a practical newspaper man, and I've done a lot of criticizing of the government in my time. I'm zealously, fanatically in favor of the democratic system. It's the only system . . . that'll give us a free press . . . the only system where we can be sure of seeing that too much power does not get into the hands of the government."

Projects Started To Plant 1,000,000 Trees On Island

Sixty men today are employed planting 1,000,000 two-year-old Douglas fir seedlings at Great Central Lake and on the old Hillcrest operations near Duncan.

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney said that favorable weather conditions have given the planters a good start. The areas being planted are at high levels which are normally not accessible in the spring because of late heavy snowfalls.

In the meantime reforestation projects are proceeding in the Cowichan Valley and at Campbell River in preparation for the annual spring planting program. The objective of the spring planting is 10,000,000 trees.

In all 10 projects are being readied for the spring plant, including two in the Cowichan Valley, four at Campbell River and continuations of the Hillcrest and Great Central Lake areas. The planting is at the rate of 900 to 1,000 trees per acre.

The current operations will take a month to complete. If snow should fall before the project is completed, it will have to be called off.

Last year the planters fell short of their 500,000 tree objective because of the poor weather conditions.

About 400,000 trees were planted.

Reforestation officials reported that this has been a poor season for the collection of seed because pollination was not adequate. For plantings in the B.C. Forest Service's nurseries at Duncan, Campbell River and Green Timbers on the mainland, reserves of seed will be used.

While the survival of spring planted Douglas fir seedlings is about 75 per cent, experts report, under favorable conditions the survival of fall plantings is 10 to 15 per cent less than spring plants. However, a severe frost before the annual winter snowfall may cut the survival rate considerably lower yet.

Electrical Workers Of Six Firms Give Notice Of Strike

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 230, gave notice of strike, effective immediately to six Victoria electrical contractors, today, according to announcement of George Langdon, president of the Victoria Electrical Contractors' Association.

Thirty-two men are involved. The brotherhood gave notice of strike following its non-acceptance of a majority report of the Conciliation Board which recommended a 20 cent an hour increase, Mr. Langdon said.

The brotherhood had asked for 15 cents an hour retroactive to July 1 equality with Vancouver retroactive to Sept. 1, which would mean an additional 25 cents an hour, he said. The total increase sought from Sept. 1 was 40 cents an hour.

The conciliation board dealt with only six firms in the city. There are more than 60 licensed contractors in the city who are not involved.

"The employers in question do not feel able to pay this large increase sought, owing to competition from approximately 60 firms not involved," Mr. Langdon said.

The six firms are: Ashcroft Electrical Machinery Co., Colin Fencham, E. Graham, H. Langdon, Murphy Electric Company and Victoria Marine Electrical Engineering Company.

City Weather Close To Average In 1947, Climatic Report Reveals

Victorians who have been complaining of the wet summer and who feel the brief Indian summer last week was hardly enough to make up for it may or may not get some consolation from the 1947 annual report on the climate of British Columbia, which has just been released.

A little solace for the wound of a rainy holiday in July or August can be gleaned from the fact that in 1947 Victoria's weather followed fairly closely its average pattern of moderate temperatures not too much rainfall and tops in the province for hours of sunshine.

During 1947, the city enjoyed a total of 2,249 hours under Old Sol's warming rays, 49 hours more than the average, and easily the highest figure in B.C. Best months, in contrast to this year, were July and August, each of which had 317 hours of sunshine. Vancouver for the year had but 1,732 hours of sunshine, 65 hours less than the average.

Average monthly mean temperature for the year was 51 degrees, one degree above the normal figure. July led the way with 73 below, recorded at Mayo, Yukon, in January, and at Dawson in February. Hottest days, when the mercury climbed to 102 degrees, were at Lytton in July and August.

The report, which covers every area of the province, was compiled by William Burton, meteorologist at the Gonzales Observatory.

Plan All-Out Effort This Week To Bring Campaign Near Goal

Greater Victoria's Community Chest campaign today entered its fourth week and officials promised an all-out effort would be made during the remaining days of the month to bring the drive much closer to the $180,000 objective.

"This will definitely be our big week, so far as subscriptions are concerned," George Randall, campaign organizer said. Close to 850 volunteer chest workers will be canvassing in both business and residential districts.

To date, only about 50 per cent of the households in Greater Victoria have been contacted by canvassers. Only 40 per cent of the business area has been covered and the industrial canvass is only 25 per cent completed.

Heaviest returns of the whole campaign are expected toward the middle of the week, Mr. Randall said.

$1,000 Haul By Thieves From Painting Firm

About $1,000 worth of brushes, paint and other articles were carted off by thieves who broke into the premises of Mullins Painting and Decorating firm at 3242 Douglas Street during the week-end, Saanich police report.

The robbery occurred between Saturday night and Sunday morning, entry being gained by smashing a window. Sergeants Cecil Pearce and Eric Elwell are investigating.

The list of stolen goods include 40 top-grade paint brushes, which retail at about $17.50 each, 32 gallons of paint, three quarts of colors in oil, wallpaper trimmers, a cheque-writing setup, 11 packages of cigarettes—and even the George Ozard Memorial Trophy presented to Charles Mullins in 1947 by the Kiwanis Club.

U.S. Submarine To Pay Visit Here

The United States submarine, U.S.S. Baya (SS 318) will visit Esquimalt in November and December, and citizens of the city and surrounding districts are invited to visit the undersea craft.

Mayor Percy George was advised today of the visit in a letter from Cmdr. John D. Mason, officer in charge of the submarine, who said he and his officers are eagerly awaiting the tie-up here.

The submarine will be on an operation of an experimental nature and will be at Esquimalt from Friday Nov. 5 to Sunday Nov. 7 and again from Friday Dec. 10 to Sunday Dec. 12.

On the Saturdays and Sundays of both visits, the craft will be open for inspection from 1 to 4 in the afternoons.

Church Robbed

A bottle of grape wine and $40 in cash, were stolen by thieves from the Church of Our Lord, Humboldt and Blanshard Streets, during daylight hours on Saturday, city police reported. Bricks were used to smash rear windows to enable entry.

Detective John Lund attended in response to the report of the robbery by Rev. D. L. Gordon. Money was in a vestry drawer, the wine in the church's wine cupboard.

Home For Unwanted, Lost Animals Here Opened By S.P.C.A.

Mayor Percy George officiated Saturday at the opening of the spacious animal shelter of the Victoria S.P.C.A. on the Industrial Reserve.

He congratulated the society for its efforts and recognized the need for an animal shelter. The shelter will be used to house lost and unwanted animals until owners can be located or homes found for the unwanted pets.

It includes new offices of the society, living quarters for a caretaker and well-constructed kennels. It is designed so that additions can be made if necessary.

James Barr, president of the Victoria branch of the society, outlined the construction of the shelter and said money willed to the society by the late Mrs. L. M. Brooks made the building of the shelter possible.

Mrs. C. S. Hobbs, president of the Provincial S.P.C.A., praised the Victoria branch for being the first group in the province to have an animal shelter.

Robert Dickson, blind operator of the Kiosk at the Public Library, was present with his guide dog Storm, and he outlined the training he and his dog underwent in California before they "graduated" and were allowed out by themselves.

World Wheat Queen To Defend Title At Fairs Next Month

Mrs. A. G. Kelsey, Erickson, world wheat queen at Chicago in 1946 and in Toronto in 1947, will be defending her title against wheat producers of the continent at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto and the international grain and hay show in Chicago.

This was reported today by officials of the provincial agriculture department. The Royal Winter Fair in Toronto will open Nov. 16, and the Chicago fair on Nov. 27.

Mrs. Kelsey was the first British Columbia woman to win the crown in Chicago in 1946. At the Toronto fair last year, at which a world wheat crown is also awarded, Mrs. Kelsey took first place. Her exhibit at Chicago last year was placed second.

ISLAND EXHIBITORS

From Vancouver Island will be going several exhibits of potatoes and some grains to the Royal Winter Fair. It is also indicated that some potato growers of the Pemberton Valley will be competing again this year, including Ross Bros., who last year won the grand championship award.

Last year Vancouver Island winners included Edgar Smith, William Wellenbrink and J. Reid from the Courtenay district.

The provincial government, to encourage the production of fine grains and field crops pays the cost of transporting the exhibits to the fairs.

Financially the world wheat crown is not worth very much but a $2,000 cup goes with it.

Johnson To Return From Britain Nov. 1

Premier Byron Johnson, who left Victoria Sept. 9 to attend the conference of Commonwealth ministers in London, is expected to return to Victoria Nov. 1, his office here reported today.

Mr. Johnson has traveled considerably in Britain during his stay there. He was accompanied by Mrs. Johnson.

The premier is planning to fly across the Atlantic for his return trip, Mrs. Johnson will return by ship.

Free Poppies For Hospitalized Vets

War veteran patients in the D.V.A., Jubilee, and St. Joseph's hospitals and residents of the Old Men's Home will again this year be presented with free poppies to wear in observance of Remembrance Day, Nov. 11.

In charge of distributing the poppies in these institutions is Harry Clear, World War I veteran, who has handled this phase of poppy work for a number of years.

Poppies will be sold on city streets on Saturday, Nov. 6.

City policemen picked up eight persons for being intoxicated in public places during the week-end. Seven of them were released after posting $10 bail, was ordered estranged by Magistrate H. C. Hall in court today. The eighth, charged with his third offence, pleaded not guilty and was remanded to tomorrow for trial. He asked for the adjournment to secure witnesses.

Texas Rodeo Troupe Causes Riot In Geneva; Many Hurt

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—A rodeo company "from the savage west" put on a combination rodeo and riot Sunday night at the Palais des Expositions here. The event left policemen and performers bruised and ruffled and 27 of the cast of 40 under arrest.

After investigation, the whole troupe of 40 was ordered expelled from Switzerland. Police required each member of the show to sign a statement saying he had "gravely abused the hospitality granted him by our country by taking part in the riot which occurred at Geneva, Oct. 24, 1948."

The trouble started when a hardy Genevan took up the rodeo company's offer of 1,000 Swiss francs (about $250) to anyone who stayed on the back of a bronco named "Income Tax" for 10 seconds.

The Swiss horseman, whose name was lost in the scuffle, declared he rode "Income Tax" for 10 seconds.

The cowboys—who billed themselves as coming from Texas—said he was up only four seconds and not on any bronco named "Income Tax." The argument roared into a free-for-all. Somewhere in the melee a cowgirl was bashed on the head with a club.

Then, says the newspaper La Suisse, the cowboys demanded "a pistol duel between the attacker and the husband of the victim—all according to every day custom in Texas, apparently." The duel didn't come off.

Police, after losing various parts of their uniforms and suffering some punches, finally won control. They put the 27 performers in jail for questioning and canceled the final performance of the show, scheduled for tonight.

Found Guilty On Wages Charge

Eric Oldaker, 416 Vancouver Street, was found guilty by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today on a charge of failure to pay George Reid wages in compliance with the Semi-monthly Payment of Wages Act. He was remanded to next Monday for judgment.

Oldaker had told the court he had a verbal partnership with Reid on or about the start of this year and therefore did not consider him in the light of an employee. Magistrate Hall noted that Reid denied the alleged partnership and pointed out there was no record of such an arrangement.

The magistrate said he did not accept the word of accused and found him guilty within the meaning of the act. C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, asked for the minimum fine of $25, but final penalty was shelved to see what could be done about the paying of $140 in wages due.

Albert E. Sewall, found guilty on a charge of dangerous driving on Esquimalt Road on Oct. 12, was fined $35 and had his license suspended for one month by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today. When the steering wheel of the car locked, the vehicle went off the road, hit a tree and continued on for another 100 feet, according to the evidence.

If War Should Come... Britain, U.S. Prepare

NOTE: The Commonwealth prime ministers agreed last week in London that the threat of war must be met by building up strong forces to deter any aggressor. That process has already started. This is the first of six Canadian Press dispatches describing the defence speed-up in Commonwealth countries.

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Australia and New Zealand, key-stones of Commonwealth defence in the South Pacific, are building their military and industrial strength to meet the threat of war.

Australia is emphasizing scientific research and development of military weapons and equipment. The aircraft industry will probably be expanded. More recruits are sought for the volunteer armed forces.

Most observers in Wellington predict that New Zealand shortly will introduce peacetime conscription despite strong objection of left-wing labor leaders. In 1946, Australia accepted greater responsibility for security of the South Pacific area. New Zealand is co-operating closely.

Last year a five-year defence program was announced by Australia. It includes a $135,000,000 program of research, including a long-range weapons project.

NO COMPULSORY TRAINING
There will be no peacetime compulsory military training, because it would take money that would be better used for research and draw too much manpower from industry.

But significant steps are being taken:

1. The Royal Australian Navy has clamped down on publication of information about its ships.
2. Navy Minister William Riordan told the House of Representatives that aircraft carriers will form the main striking force of the Australian Navy. In spending $10,000,000 a year on the navy and ship construction facilities, emphasis would also be put on the completion of Australian-built destroyers of the long-range type.

3. The army has cancelled plans for withdrawing from several large camps which were going to be used for civilian purposes.

4. The government has withdrawn from sale some $6,000,000 worth of aircraft parts which had been declared surplus.

5. The government is expected shortly to announce plans for expanding the aircraft industry, operating since the war on a skeleton basis.

6. Air Minister Arthur Drakeford has appealed for 5,000 technicians for the Royal Australian Air Force.

7. In all services, lists of reserve officers have been brought up-to-date.

8. Intelligence and security services are understood to have under daily review lists of persons liable for internment immediately should war break out.

BOLDER DEFENCE

New Zealanders generally are more agreeable to a bold and costly defence policy than they were in 1939. Purchase of six frigates from Britain, establishment of a fund to buy front-line aircraft, and appointment of scientists to a new "scientific defence corps" are pointers to the increased preparedness.

An important, but little publicized, feature of New Zealand's defence planning is atomic research. A small group of scientists who worked on atomic secrets in Canada and the United Kingdom during the war now are back in New Zealand, working under a security black-out. It is said that projects under way here are of value to the whole Commonwealth, part of a well-integrated Commonwealth research plan.

This is a peace story. It is a factual description of the steps the United States government is taking to keep its country strong in case the worst should happen.

This report faces up to grim reality. It gives information which should make that reality a little more bearable.

This dispatch, from the NEA's correspondent on the Washington defense front, is the first of four telling of U.S. readiness on the land, on the sea, in the air, and at the Pentagon.

On Land Guerrilla Fighting Might Begin

This Is NOT A War Scare Story...

One general points out: "Guerrilla fighting is the pattern of warfare being waged all over the world today. The action isn't decisive, it's diversionary. Guerrilla bands use small arms and live off the land. It is the cheapest and easiest kind of warfare to wage. It is the kind of war to which modern methods and means of warfare do not apply."

On land: Fifth columnists turned guerrillas...

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON—On the land, if war should come: Guerrilla fighting might break out in various parts of the U.S. Such is the strength of a Fifth Column believed to exist in America.

That is the sober belief of some of the top generals of the U.S. Army.

It bears out the statement made by Belgian Premier Paul-Henri Spaak at the United Nations Assembly that Russia possessed "a Fifth Column around the world alongside of which Hitler's Fifth Column was but an organization of Boy Scouts."

The experts believe that the objective of such fighting would be to destroy civilian morale, to create general internal confusion, to make raids on war plants and to divert troops from overseas fighting. The guerrillas would be Fifth Columnists already in the U.S., possibly supplemented by paratroopers.

ACCORDING TO PLAN

Meanwhile the U.S. offensive would get under way according to the overall plan of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The primary mission of the army would be to capture advance bases for use by the air force. The strategists believe that there would be such a scramble for these bases that parachute troops of both sides would be dropping simultaneously, probably shooting at each other in the air.

The land fighting to secure these bases and to hold them would be approximately the same type of fighting seen during World War II. It would require armies equipped with all the heavy armored units, artillery—the same as used during the last war—backed up by the same type of service troops.

Since the last war the 75 mm. recoilless gun and other recoilless weapons are the most significant new arms developed by the army for the ground soldier. They are extremely light and require only one man to fire them. They give an army tremendously increased fire power. Rifles, machine guns, conventional artillery, bazookas, grenades, flame throwers and the rest have all been improved and refined since the last war. But the tactical ground fighting would follow pretty much the same pattern of World War II.

PROXIMITY FUSE

The Department of the Army points out, however, that an enemy might use such things as atomic bombs, germ warfare, supersonic airplanes and guided missiles in addition to the weapons developed up to the end of World War II. And an enemy might have the deadly proximity fuse. It increases the effectiveness of a shell by exploding it over the heads of troops. U.S. troops would certainly use it.

To protect himself against the possibility of the enemy using these new weapons, the doughboy of the next war will have to be much better trained than he ever has been. Service troops would have to know how to use weapons almost as effectively as combat troops. The greater use of electronics in every phase of ground warfare, for radio and radar, creates a greater need for technicians as fighting men than ever before.

All these things add up to the fact that the foot soldier has lost

... would be aided by paratroopers to raid U.S.

Land fighting would follow World War II pattern, but would have new weapons like this 75 mm. recoilless gun.

The main differences in the complexion of the ground of a war which might come tomorrow would probably be more extensive Arctic fighting and airborne operations. The popular concept of flying over the polar regions as the shortest distance to targets and of using frigid areas for bases is expected to increase the fighting in ice and snow. And the need for quicker thrusts and faster movement of troops call for more transportation of troops by airplane.

POWDERED GLIDERS

This latter need will probably see the use of powdered gliders.

That would be the general character of a ground war in the first stages, if it should come tomorrow. Some air force generals claim that an enemy could be knocked out in three months. That is tomorrow's story. Others think that the next war could drag on for 30 years or more, with Russia and the U.S. sweating it out in their own halves of the globe.

What war would become then is anybody's guess. It would probably be a test of political and economic stamina to see which one could survive the longest in hemispheric isolation. Whatever the character of the next war, however, all the experts agreed that it will find U.S. civilians bombed and shot at by foreign invaders for the first time in history and no matter who wins, the standard of living in the U.S. will be drastically lowered.

Tomorrow: On the Sea.

Danish King, Queen Visitors in London

LONDON (Reuter)—The King and Queen with Queen Mother Mary were on the platform Saturday night to greet King Frederick and Queen Astrid of Denmark when they arrived by train from Harwich.

The Danish King and Queen, who were accompanied by Queen Alexandrine, the King's mother, are visiting London for the London exhibition of Danish art.

Prepaid Basis For Travel Extended

Facilities to bring passengers here from Europe on a prepaid basis have been further extended by the addition of Austria, Germany and Italy to the list of countries from which this type of traffic can be handled, according to an announcement made today by Austin Curtis, general agent Canadian National Railways in Victoria.

This means that residents of Canada can now arrange for transportation from most of the European countries for friends and relatives.

The addition of the Scythia and Samaria to the trans-Atlantic service is greatly helping the handling of this type of traffic, particularly as these ships operate to and from Canadian ports.

Three Duck Hunters Drowned In Alberta

TABER, Alta. (CP)—Three Taber duck hunters were drowned in an irrigation storage reservoir near here Saturday when their boat upset.

The dead: Allan Merida Jensen, 35, who died on the way to hospital here; Parley Bynumhill, 26, and John Walter Myre, 24. Bodies of Bynumhill and Myre were recovered Sunday.

The three, accompanied by Burdett Hill, also of Taber, were near the middle of the lake when the accident happened. Hill, who got off the boat at a small island, witnessed the mishap and swam to shore to summon aid.

Jensen was taken from the lake, but died before he reached hospital.

Launch Speedboat

The fastest boat of her kind in lower Vancouver Island, the 18-foot runabout Perdu, was launched at Oak Bay Saturday afternoon.

Equipped with a 125 horsepower gas engine, the Perdu is capable of doing 45 knots. She is owned by J. Olsen of Cowichan Lake and was built here by Paul and William Stromkims.

Former Victoria Man Honored In Opening Of Electric Plant

By LLOYD BAKER
Times Staff Reporter

SOUTH SHALALTH, Bridge River, B.C.—Tears welled into the eyes of a former Victoria man after he played the leading role in the dramatic opening here Saturday of the B.C. Electric Railway Company's $22,000,000 hydro-electric power plant.

Choked with emotion, 68-year-old Geoffrey Downton sounded a siren which sent 75 per cent more power sparking over 130 miles of lines into Vancouver and the lower mainland.

At the sound of the siren, workmen opened mighty valves which released tons of water through a 2,400-foot penstock down the side of Mission Mountain starting a 62,000-horsepower generator in motion.

FIRST OF 10

The generator is the first of 10 to be installed. Two more of the 10 will be operating next October.

It was a 36-year-old dream come true for Mr. Downton, retired B.C. land surveyor, who lived in Victoria early in the century. In 1912 he stood atop Mission Mountain, 4,000 feet above sea level, and saw in his mind's eye the potentialities of the Bridge River Valley for power development. Subsequently he staked water rights and formed the first Bridge River power company which later was taken over by the B.C.E.R.

Because of his vision and the fact that he set in motion plans to harness the rugged river, Geoffrey Downton was given the honor of starting in operation the first unit of the massive plant.

"I don't know what to say... this is the happiest moment of my life..." he faltered when approached by the writer following the ceremony.

It was in a clear voice though, just before he sounded the klaxon, that he uttered the invocation "that Bridge River power will brighten the lives and lighten the toll of countless thousands in the years to come."

PARTY FROM COAST

More than 200 officials of the provincial and municipal governments, business executives from many parts of Canada and a large representation of newspapermen and radio broadcasters from Vancouver and Victoria, attended the ceremony as guests of the B.C.E.R.

They made the trip in three stages, from Vancouver to Ashcroft by special 15-car C.P.R. train, from Ashcroft to Clinton by a fleet of Greyhound buses, and from Clinton to Shalalth by the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

The entire trip was a masterpiece of organization on the part of B.C.E.R. public relations men, including the Victoria representative of that branch of the company, E. F. (Ted) Fox.

There were two ceremonies for the opening of the plant. Speeches were given by Acting Premier Herbert Anscomb, A. E. (Dal) Grauer, president of the B.C.E.R., and Thomas Ingledew, vice-president and chief engineer of the company.

W. C. Mainwaring, formerly in charge of Vancouver Island operations of the company, was chairman of this part of the opening.

The assembly then moved to the uncompleted power house for the climax of the trip, the starting of the first unit of the station.

In 40 seconds after Mr. Downton sounded the signal, semi-darkness of late afternoon was stabbed by blinding light high in the ceiling of the huge building of the power station.

Minutes earlier, Dean Cecil Swanson of Christ Church in Vancouver had dedicated the plant "to the glory of God and the service of man."

The dedication was a feature of the ceremony. It was the first time, in Dean Swanson's knowl-

"Made in Canada"

NEW STUDEBAKER CARS AND TRUCKS ARE NOW BEING BUILT IN THIS HUGE NEW HAMILTON PLANT!

HERE'S the best car and truck news in years for Canadians from coast to coast! Studebaker's huge new Canadian plant in Hamilton, Ontario, has begun production!

Studebaker dealers throughout Canada are beginning to receive their initial shipments of dramatically styled, new, low-swung Studebaker Champion cars. New Studebaker trucks will follow shortly.

AT LAST—AFTER TWO YEARS OF PLANNING!

This month, after two years of careful planning and preparation, Studebaker of Canada—established here in 1909—managed by Canadian executives and manned by Canadian employees—is moving swiftly toward its newest goal.

Smartly styled Studebaker motor cars and rugged, powerful Studebaker trucks are being built by Canadians for Canadians in a Canadian factory!

Already, Canadian materials and Canadian labor are going into these new Studebakers. Soon, as this Hamilton plant hits a faster stride, and more parts begin flowing from Canadian suppliers, increasingly larger amounts of Canadian-made materials will be available to the expert Canadian workmen who man Studebaker's modern Canadian production lines.

CANADA-WIDE MAINTENANCE SERVICE— A COMPLETE SUPPLY OF STUDEBAKER PARTS!

With 15 Studebaker parts depots located in strategic points across the nation, Studebaker owners throughout Canada are assured of prompt attention to their needs.

Stocks of spare parts and accessories are carried by more than 350 Canadian Studebaker dealers.

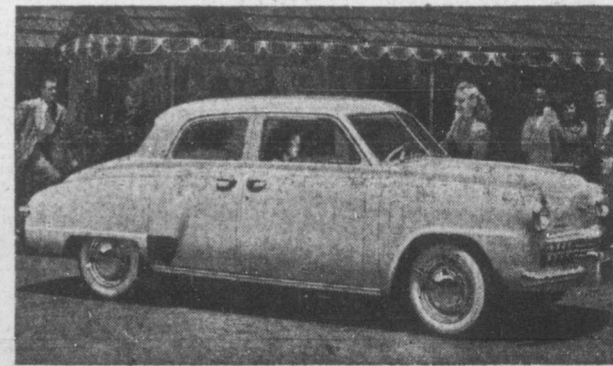

The new Hamilton factory, of course, is a constant source of supply for parts and accessories.

Studebaker of Canada joins its progressive Canadian dealer organization in extending to the public a cordial invitation to see the new "made-in-Canada" Studebaker cars and trucks.

More and more far-advanced new Studebakers—in all car and truck models—should be coming off the production lines at Hamilton in the early future.

Helicopter Towed To Scene In New Air Rescue Technique

Rescue of survivors of crash landings in remote spots, almost inaccessible from the land, has long plagued the air force, as well as commercial air lines. A new technique that may solve the problem is described for the first time in air force magazine. The sketches below show how a large helicopter could be towed to the scene, cast adrift to land under its own power, pick up the survivors and then be towed back. The helicopter in the sketches is a Piasecki HRP-1, towed by a Fairchild C-119. Other long-range planes could be used as well.

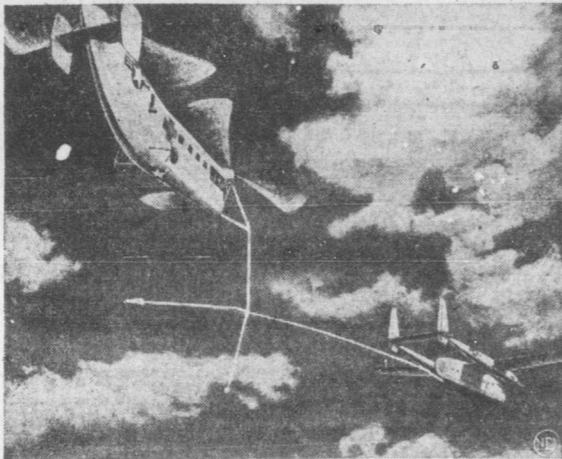

The helicopter is towed to the scene of the crash by the C-119.

It lands under its own power. The C-119 remains aloft.

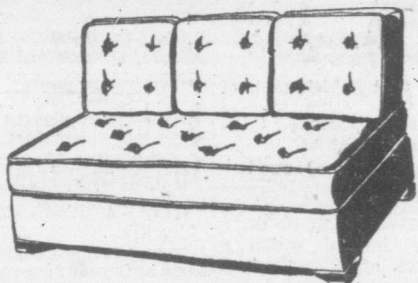

Injured and other survivors are loaded into helicopter.

It takes off under own power, and makes tow connection in mid-air.

'So Evil My Love' Has Splendid Cast

Perhaps you've forgotten the names of two of the actors featured in "So Evil My Love," the new Hal Wallis production for Paramount now at the Atlas Theatre, but, if you were among those who thrilled to the hit film, "Great Expectations," you have not forgotten their faces.

The two players are Finlay Currie and Marita Hunt and they support Ray Milland, Ann Todd and Geraldine Fitzgerald in "So Evil My Love," a gripping drama of a decent woman's overwhelming infatuation for an unscrupulous scoundrel.

'Dead End' Based On City Street Life

As a Broadway stage play "Dead End" was a smash hit, packing 'em in for two solid years. Later it was cheered from coast to coast.

Samuel Goldwyn's motion picture based on the powerful Sidney Kingsley drama of life in a city street opened today at the RKO Theatre, with Sylvia Sydney, Joel McCrea and Humphrey Bogart heading an impressive cast.

DOMINION THEATRE

Weaving its unusual story around the career of the priest who founded St. Louis' famous Newsboys' Home, RKO Radio's "Fighting Father Dunne," now at the Dominion Theatre, stars Pat O'Brien. The role is O'Brien's fourth biographical one and is hailed as his best to date. Darryl Hickman, Charles Kemper, Una O'Connor and Arthur Shields are featured. Ted Tetzlaff directed.

SYMPHONY SOLOIST—Ernest Adams, baritone, who will appear as guest artist at the first concert of Victoria Symphony this season, Nov. 1. Mr. Adams will sing with the orchestra: Prologue to "I Pagliacci," "Largo El Factotum," from "The Barber of Seville," and "Nocturne," by Pearl Curran.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Hattie McDaniel, who plays a featured role in Eagle Lion's Cinecolor production "Mickey," starring the 16-year-old singing star Lois Butler, became a professional entertainer after winning a gold medal in a talent contest sponsored by the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Playing a maid in "Mickey," which is now at the Capitol Theatre, Hattie marks her 275th play and her 83rd part as a maid. The popular featured player appeared in her first screen role in 1931, as "Queenie" opposite Paul Robeson in "Show Boat," after years of playing the vaudeville circuits and night clubs as a singer and entertainer.

Where To Go Tonight

(As Advertised)
ATLAS—"So Evil My Love," starring Ray Milland and Ann Todd.

CAPITOL—"Mickey," starring Lois Butler.

DOMINION—"Pat O'Brien in 'Fighting Father Dunne.'"

OAK BAY—"Deborah Kerr in 'Black Narcissus.'"

ODEON—"The Babe Ruth Story," starring William Bendix.

PLAZA—"Are You With It?" starring Donald O'Connor.

RIO—"Dead End," starring Joel McCrea.

ROYAL—"On the stage, 'The Desert Song.'"

YORK INTERNATIONAL—"The Best Years of Our Lives," starring Myrna Loy and Fredric March.

PLAZA THEATRE
"Are You With It?" Universal International's glib, tune-film version of the hilarious Broadway success, now showing at the Plaza Theatre.

The picture has four young, sparkling stars in Donald O'Connor, Olga San Juan, Martha Stewart and Lew Parker. The latter player appears in the same role he created in the New York stage production.

O'Connor portrays an insurance statistician who gets involved with a carnival and becomes one of the tent show's biggest and best attractions.

ODEON THEATRE
"The Babe Ruth Story," Roy Del Ruth's Allied Artists production which is currently at the Odeon theatre, is an exceptional motion picture. It has been a long time, indeed, since the screen has shown a more thoroughly satisfying film than this, which details not only the amazing athletic prowess of the great Babe Ruth, but includes intervals of the deepest pathos.

William Bendix, Claire Trevor and Charles Bickford are seen in the starring roles, and each contributes in great measure to the worth of the picture.

The DOCTOR Says:

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE, HARDENED ARTERIES APT TO BRING STROKE

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

The word "stroke" is used to describe the results of hemorrhage into the brain, or a clot in one of the blood vessels supplying the brain. It covers two related but different conditions—brain hemorrhage and a clot in a blood vessel. Actually, there is little difference between the two.

Either a hemorrhage or a clot is more likely to develop in a person with high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries who is over 40 years old. Hemorrhage is more common in men. Some families seem to acquire hardened arteries, or high blood pressure earlier in life than others and are, therefore, more likely to have a "stroke of apoplexy."

HEMORRHAGE MORE SUDDEN

It is often difficult to tell whether there has been a hemorrhage or a clot. Hemorrhage is likely to come on suddenly. When the condition comes from a clot or thrombosis in a blood vessel, the symptoms tend to develop slowly.

If the region of the brain which is affected by the clot or hemorrhage is large, there is likely to be sudden and complete unconsciousness. Often the breathing becomes changed and noisy. Paralysis of some part of the body is likely.

Recovery from a stroke often begins soon after the stroke itself. Little can be done to hasten this recovery, but the earlier it starts the better the chances for complete recovery.

Good nursing care is very important. Sometimes massage or carefully graded exercises are helpful to the paralysis.

Question: What is meant by a systole of the heart?

Answer: The period when the heart contracts is called systole. When the heart relaxes it is called diastole. During contraction blood is forced out through the arteries; during relaxation the chambers of the heart are filled.

Leading Issues Dropped 2 Points

NEW YORK (AP) — Selling pressure centred on steel Monday, and pushed the Stock Market lower.

Prices were off fractions to around a point with some of the leading issues dropping as much as two points at times.

Around mid-day a brief rally was started that lifted the list above the earlier low points, but that rally failed to carry through.

Although steel was lower, metals held fairly steady with demand running second only to steel.

Oils at one time were higher against the trend of the list as a whole, but they joined the general movement later. Ralls were lower and not very active.

Dow Jones closing averages:

30 Industrials 189.52, off 0.67

20 rails 61.73, off 0.51

15 utilities 35.60, off 0.15

65 stocks 70.39, off 0.34

Total sales, 1,100,000.
